A President Can Resign, But

If President Eisenhower should choose to resign and enjoy the years ahead at his Gettysburg farm . . .

How would he do so?

The Constitution of the United States anticipated that one day a chief executive might so wish. (None has.) It provided that in the event of death, resignation or inability to serve, the succession would go to the vice president.

But the Constitution did not say to whom the resignation should be made. Nor what form it would take.

Senator Walter George, a constitutional student, was queried.

"First let me say that I do not believe the President would entertain an idea of resigning," he said. "I very much hope he will be able to serve out his term.

To Congress

"But," he continued, "in answering the constitutional question, there are two natural assumptions. A resignation could be handed to the vice president, as next in succession. But the more likely procedure would be for the message of resignation to be submitted to a joint session of the Congress. It is somewhat the same insofar as the incapacity to serve phrase is concerned. The Constitution does not say who shall determine, or how it shall be determined, when a president is unable to serve. Woodrow Wilson's illness was adjudged by many to have incapacitated him for service. Yet, he and his office continued to function. So long as the office functions it likely would be necessary for a president himself to report to the Congress that he was physically unable to serve."

Other students of constitutional law concur in Sen. George's conclusions. A president may resign. Either the vice president or the Congress, more properly the latter, could receive the message.

There will be tremendous pressure on the President, once able to resume his duties, to stay out the term. Certainly almost everyone, including Democrats, hopes he will do just that. Most of the nation shivers with apprehensions at the thought of the vice president in office.

But no one knows what the President will do. He has not yet talked with his family. He certainly will not be a candidate in 1956. He probably will continue in office. But he is a stubborn man. "When his Dutch is up, no one can change his mind," is a common saying among those who know him best.

If he has made up his mind that Vice President Nixon is his choice to succeed him, he might well resign and allow the Californian to occupy the office to strengthen him in the fight for nomination and election.

No one knows how the President really feels about his vice president. He has pushed him along, and given him opportunities to develop.

Opposition

Yet the Californians closest to the President, and those most influential in his nomination and election, strongly oppose the vice president. Weeks ago leaders in the Republican Party began a quiet move to block that renomination in 1956. They will be even more determined if the President is not to be a candidate.

So, while there is no indication, or even likelihood, the President will resign, no one really knows what he will do. If he and his family decide his future will be best served by retiring to Gettysburg, he will do just that. And none could criticize.

Meanwhile, as the chiefs of the Republican Party gather in Washington, there are strong indications that if the President informs them he cannot, and will not, be available for 1956, a determined effort will be made to call Chief Justice Earl Warren from the Supreme Court Bench to offer for the nomination. He would be a strong man. The nation has confidence in him. He, however, issued a strong statement some weeks ago that under no circumstances would he be a candidate.

All this goes on as the nation prays for the President.

CAR LANDS ON GAS TRUCK HERE—Ptl. R. J. Stephens and C. Chitwood reported Tuesday night the car driven by Andrew Gilbert Roddy, 36, of 974 Oak St., SW, tire recapper, going 50 miles an hour east on North avenue, NE, struck a parked car in front of 223 North Ave., went out of control, careened over the sidewalk and struck a fence, coming to rest on the rear of a gas truck after going over an embankment. Roddy and a passenger, Marvin Moon, were unhurt. Roddy was charged with drunk driving, drunk on the street, improper driving on a roadway laned for traffic and no driver's license after investigation was completed.

Myrt Steals Home With TV$32,000

Giving in to the almost prayerful pleas and advice of friends and family, "Miss Myrt" Tuesday night declined to try for the top prize on CBS-TV's "$64,000 Question."

Miss Myrt

Mrs. Myrtle Powers, 70-year-old Brooklyn Dodger fan from Buford, explained as she took last week's $32,000 winnings, "My Dodgers have won lots of pennants. I feel like I have won a pennant," Then she smiled, "But they never won a world series, and I don't want to beat them to it."

Reaching her present total on an encyclopedic knowledge of baseball, the grandmother-housekeeper had batted a thousand on her three previous appearances on

Series Opens at Noon; Ford vs. Newcombe

The World Series, with Yankee left-hander Whitey Ford (18-7) going to the mound against the Dodgers' Don Newcombe (20-5), begins Wednesday at Yankee Stadium.

WSB-TV will carry the color telecast beginning at 12, noon, (EST) with pre-game warm up at 11:45 a.m. Mutual radio network (WQXI locally) will carry the series beginning at 11:30 a.m.

The Yankees are favored in the first game, 6-5, and 13-10 to take the series, despite the Dodgers' apparently stronger showing during the season. For comparison of the two teams see stories in the Sports Peach section.

Egypt To Trade Cotton For Soviet, Czech Arms

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 27 (AP)—Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser told a crowded meeting tonight that Egypt has agreed to supply Czechoslovakia with cotton in exchange for arms.

Nasser said the western powers had refused to supply Egypt arms unless the Egyptians agreed to conditions his nation could not accept.

"We never will attack or threaten anyone else," he said, "but the western powers have refused to give us arms for defense."

RED OFFER OKAYED

Nasser made his announcement in an address opening a military exhibit.

The announcement came a few hours after Egypt notified Britain she had accepted a Soviet offer to supply her arms for cotton. Czechoslovakia is the main arsenal of Moscow's sphere, sending arms even to Russia. Guns and ammunition are turned out by the vast Skoda works, known to military men around the world.

Nasser said the United States offered only promises and "demands to sign a mutual security agreement or some kind of defense pact.

He said his government replied that it would "not accept arms at the expense of our freedom and independence."

RED ADVANTAGE?

In Washington, State department officials said the conditions offered Egypt for the sale or grant of American arms were exactly the same as those accepted by other friendly governments.

Referring to a strong reaction in London and Washington to Egyptian purchase of arms from Iron Curtain nations, Nasser denied the deal would open the door to Red influence in Egypt.

"I can assure these countries the western powers that revolutionary Egypt will never allow foreign influence or foreign exploitation," the Premier said. "On the contrary, these arms will help us protect our independence and safeguard our internal and foreign policy."

U.S., Britain Fear Mideast Arms Race

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Egypt's announcement that she has arranged to obtain weapons from the Moscow orbit raised American and British fears tonight of an arms race in the tense Middle East.

Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan issued a joint statement calling on Russia and other nations not to contribute to such a race.

Egypt said she would obtain the arms from Czechoslovakia, a Moscow Communist satellite, in exchange for cotton.

Concern was felt in official American and British circles that the arms Egypt would get include "heavy" weapons of a type the Western Powers refused to send to Egypt.

Egypt is understood to have offered to buy from the United States such material as jet bombers, heavy tanks, artillery and naval vessels.

The Americans and British were represented as feeling such equipment would upset the balance of power in the Middle East.

They were willing to supply arms to Egypt but only to the extent needed for internal policing and defense from external attack.

The statement by Dulles and Macmillan said the United States and Britain were in harmony on a policy of avoiding "an arms race which would inevitably increase the tensions in the area."

DeKalb Adds Precincts; Largest State Box Split

By BRUCE GALPHIN

The Decatur Courthouse precinct, reputedly the largest voting box in Georgia, Tuesday was split up in a reshuffling of DeKalb County polling places.

The county added a total of 11 precincts to the existing 29.

The old Courthouse box had served some 12,000 voters and was believed to be the largest in the state, said Charles D. McKinney Jr., executive assistant to the commissioner.

McKinney explained the additions were made following complaints by voters that they had to wait too long at polling places. He also said that the county was hoping to encourage more voting by making voting places more readily available to DeKalb citizens.

In the Decatur militia district, the number of precincts was raised from six to 13. Two polling places were added in the Cross Keys district and two in East Atlanta.

The revamping of DeKalb's voting districts had also been requested by public officials and officers of the Democratic committee, said McKinney.

The reorganization was studied by the Board of Registrars, the Democratic Executive Committee, DeKalb Ordinary Mrs. Katherine Mann and other county officials. Their recommendations were made to Commissioner Wheat Williams, who ordered the changes officially Tuesday.

Names of the precincts in Cross Keys will now be Brookhaven, Chamblee, Jim Cherry and Skyland. In East Atlanta they will be called East Atlanta, Leslie J. Steele and Skyhaven.

The 13 Decatur district precincts will be called Avondale, College Heights, Courthouse, Emory, Decatur Glenwood, Hooper Alexander, Johnson Estates, Medlock, Oakhurst, Ponce de Leon, Scottdale, W. D. Thomson and Winnona.

Other precincts will remain the same as in the past.

Indian Summer Likely To Lurk At Your Tepees

Atlanta's "cool spell" is due to hang around till Thursday at least, according to Atlanta weather bureau reports.

Wednesday and Thursday mornings will be cool and considerably cloudy, with a slight rise in temperature and clearing skies in the afternoon.

Predicted Wednesday extremes are 65 and 85; Thursday, 65-80. Tuesday's low and high readings were 67 and 81.

Soviet Deputies Greet Italy Socialist Chief

MOSCOW, Sept. 27 (AP) — Italian leftist Socialist leader Pietro Nenni was received today by Soviet Deputy Premiers Georgi Malenkov and Mikhail Suslov during a brief stopover in Moscow on Nenni's way to Peiping.

The news agency Tass reported the three men met but gave no details. Nenni later took a plane for Red China.

Brownell Discounts Urgency For Ruling on Ike's Powers; President Is Alert, Cheerful

First Lady Thanks All For Prayers

By W. H. LAWRENCE
The New York Times News Service

DENVER, Sept. 27 — President Eisenhower was reported alert, cheerful and comfortable today as he continued slow but steady progress toward recovery.

Attending physicians, including eminent heart specialists, were not willing to say that the President was yet out of danger, but they emphasized no complications have developed since he suffered a "moderate" coronary thrombosis about 2:45 a.m. Saturday.

BLOOD PRESSURE OKAY

The President slept soundly for more than 10 hours through the night, and was wide awake during the morning hours. In the past, he has napped frequently during the day.

No drugs were administered today. This was the first protracted interval without medication since the President was stricken.

He had no fever and a hospital bulletin said that his "blood pressure and pulse remain stable and atisfactory." The sixth and seventh cardiograms of his heart action "continued to show the expected evolution," as nature went to work to repair the damaged heart muscles and blood vessels.

HAS GOOD DAY

The physicians' 9 p.m., (11 p.m. EST,) bulletin summed up the President's day as "satisfactory" and "without complications." It said:

"After a good afternoon rest period, he again visited briefly with his family.

Skips Action On Shunting Of Authority

By WILLIAM M. BLAIR
The New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 — The highest government officials indicated today they saw nothing in the immediate future that necessitated a quick decision on a delegation of any powers by President Eisenhower.

Atty. Gen. Brownell said there was general agreement that at the moment there was no cause for any action on the question. Discounting any urgency in the present situation, he said there were sufficient legal arrangements to carry on "the day-to-day operations of the government."

He said that although the Justice Department was studying the delegation of powers problem, "I don't know that it will be necessary to deliver a legal opinion," as requested by the summer White House in Denver. "The news from Denver is encouraging."

FOLLOWS CONFERENCE

Brownell expressed his belief after a luncheon conference with Vice President Nixon, Sherman Adams, assistant to the President, Secretary of Treasury Humphrey and William P. Rogers Jr., assistant attorney general. The attorney general cut short a vacation in Spain to return to Washington. He arrived by plane this morning.

They met in Secretary Humphrey's office. The meeting place was interpreted by some as calculated to bolster confidence that government affairs were running smoothly and the economy was sound.

Nixon said "the purpose of the meeting was to bring the attorney general up to date." Asked if financial affairs, including the stock market break of yesterday, were discussed he replied "I prefer not to go behind the meeting."

KEEPS TAB ON MARKET

The Treasury secretary received throughout the day reports on market activity. Aides described them as "encouraging."

Adams had no comment on the situation but said he was "highly pleased" with the reports from Denver.

Bargain Hunters Push Stocks Up $3.2 Billion

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Investors in search of bargains poured hundreds of millions of dollars into the stock market today, sending prices up $1 to $5 a share in the wake of yesterday's sensational decline.

Yesterday's fall, occasioned by news that President Eisenhower had suffered a heart attack, wiped nearly 13 billion dollars from the market valuation of shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Today's recovery retrieved almost 3¼ billions of the loss.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced $2.90 today, making up roughly 25 per cent of the decline. The Dow-Jones industrials gained 10.37 points after a 31.89-point loss yesterday.

The upturn was credited by Wall Streeters to good news on the President's condition and to a feeling that yesterday's drop was overdone — that is, that share prices went down too sharply under the influence of emotional selling.

Today, prices were generally higher from the start, but continued heavy liquidation, in a large part by small stockholders, held gains to moderate proportions all morning. So great was the turnover—much of it in 100 - share lots—that on several occasions the ticker tape ran behind in reporting transactions on the floor of the exchange.

Volume for the session was abnormally large at 5,500,000 shares. However, yesterday saw 7,720,000 shares change hands in the most active day since July 21, 1933.

Prices also advanced on the American Stock Exchange.

George Shows Slash in Aid Bodes Peace

By ELKIN TAYLOR
Constitution Staff Writer

ALBANY, Sept. 27 — Sen. George Tuesday told Georgia Kiwanians, "Peace may lie very much closer to our hands than we are accustomed to think."

The senator crossed swords with opponents of foreign assistance appropriations. He pointed out that foreign aid has dropped from a peak of $7.3 billion in 1951-52 to less than $2.7 billion last year.

Critics of foreign aid, he said, "do not mention that $600 million of this money was for supporting surplus farm products." Without this money, George said, the farm situation would be "much more stagnant than it is."

George expressed hope President Eisenhower will quickly recover. "It would be a great loss to this nation—and to the world—if Dwight D. Eisenhower's period of activity should be cut short," he said.

George devoted most of the remainder of a luncheon address to taxation. He did not broach any definite plan for tax reduction but he suggested strongly that some revision should be made of the tax burden of the middle class.

DeKalb Due To Boost Tax Rate 2.5 Mills

A 2.5 mill increase in the general tax fund levy was tentatively set Tuesday by DeKalb Commissioner Wheat Williams.

The new levy of 21 mills is expected to be made official Wednesday, the commissioner said.

Williams said the change was made because the revised 1955 tax digest is some $50,000,000 smaller than the county had expected when it originally set a levy of 18.5 mills.

He revealed the net total of the revised digest is $115,000,000. Before the court ruling it stood at about $165,000,000.

The commissioner estimated the new arrangement would mean a loss to the county of $600,000 in previously figured general operating revenues.

He said this meant the county would have to postpone another year paying off some $400,000 in debts left by the Scott Candler administration. The remaining $200,000 loss will be met by reducing county operating expenses, Williams explained.

Soviet Jet Down In Turkey, Report

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Sept. 27 (AP)—The semiofficial Anatolian News Agency said a Soviet jet plane, believed to be on an observation mission, made a forced landing today near Riza, on Turkey's Black Sea coast.

It didn't say what the trouble was, but reported other Russian aircraft have been flying over eastern Turkey and the Foreign Office has "called the situation to the attention of the Soviet government."

WRITER TELLS OF HEART ATTACK

Despite Top Medical Men's Study, 'Life' Still Best Reason for Ailment

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—What causes a heart attack?

Science knows the mechanical facts. It knows that in a coronary thrombosis—the type of attack that President Eisenhower had last week—a blood clot forms and eventually plugs an artery. It blocks one of the channels that "feeds" an area of the heart wall.

But what caused the clot to form? What is the deep, basic cause?

While a doctor was working over me on the incredible morning when I was hit, I asked a million questions. I wanted to know everything. Finally, I asked the important one, "Well, what caused it?"

He looked at me quietly and replied, "Life."

It was as good an answer as any. This is about all that science can say with any certainty today.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The writer of this article is an Associated Press staff member who has just returned to work after suffering a coronary attack last spring. This article is the second in a series of five.

Heart disease cut down nearly 800,000 Americans last year, more than half of all who died in 1954. Cancer and automobiles are peanuts compared to heart ailments. Moreover, a great majority of those who died of heart disease were in the highly productive years of life, 40 to 65.

So, today, some of the best scientific brains in the nation are trying to track down the fundamental cause of the cardiovascular diseases, arteries, the circulatory system, high blood pressure, and so on. They are asking these questions:

1. Is it the American pace of living?

Very few nations have as high a death rate as the United States among men, aged 40 to 65. Is that because the American drives himself so hard, "lives it up," burns the candle at both ends?

Reports from West Germany indicate that, recently, the death rate from heart attacks has been rising there. Doctors wonder whether the Germans, in driving so hard for recovery from the war, are not duplicating the American experience.

However, Dr. Albert S. Hyman made a study of heart disease in the jungles of the South Pacific. He wrote of the "surprisingly high incidence of cardiovascular disease

Soviet, British Warships Plan Exchange of Visits

MOSCOW, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Soviet government and the British embassy announced today warships of the two countries will exchange visits Oct. 12 through Oct. 17.

A British squadron of six ships headed by the aircraft carrier Triumph will call at Leningrad, and six Russian warships led by the heavy cruiser Alexander Suvorov will visit the British naval base at Portsmouth.

The British squadron will move into Leningrad with full dress panopl,.

Roaming the streets and squares of the grey, fogbound old imperial capital will be 200 officers, 150 midshipmen, 1,800 sailors and the gaily uniformed Royal Marine Band.

Watching over them—in case there is any trouble as the tars get acquainted with Russian vodka, Russian girls and Russian hospitality — British navy shore patrols in special British jeeps will patrol the city's streets in cooperation with the Leningrad militia.

This is believed to be the first time foreign police have been invited to help keep order in Leningrad.

The announcements of the naval exchange, issued simultaneously in Moscow and London, said Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and British Prime Minister Anthony Eden initiated the idea. Bennett worked out the arrangements with Soviet naval authorities in Moscow.

U.S. To Receive Ancestral Home Of Washington

WASHINGTON, England, Sept. 27 (AP)—The ancient ancestral home of George Washington's family in this sleepy North England village will become an American possession tomorrow.

U. S. Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich, surrounded by an honor guard of the Washington Greys, will turn a golden key and enter the Old Washington Hall on behalf of the American nation.

The hall is the first known English home of the Washington family and goes back to the 17th century, before the family moved to the better known home at Sulgrave.

The present building stands on the site of the old Washington mansion and includes much of the original structure. It is being handed over to the American nation as a permanent memorial to the ties between Britain and the American president.

Benson Admits Mistake In Branding Ladejinsky

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson conceded today he was wrong in tagging Wolf Ladejinsky a security risk.

Benson testified before a Senate subcommittee which also heard the head of the Veterans Administration say most of the employes weeded from his agency as risks would have been "fired anyway" for other reasons.

The agriculture secretary said the now - celebrated Ladejinsky case gave him some new ideas on security matters which he passed along to President Eisenhower. But he said that to testify as to those ideas would violate a confidence.

From VA Administrator H. V. Higley came the testimony that a "great majority" of 449 VA employes dismissed on security grounds would have been tossed out anyway.

Higley told investigating senators most of these people "were not fired under 10450"—the executive order under which President Eisenhower set up the administration's security program.

His testimony prompted Paul Hadlick, counsel to a Senate Civil Service subcommittee examining that program, to comment:

"But someone for political purposes makes them out to be almost espionage agents."

Philip Young, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, told the senators yesterday that between May 28, 1953 and last June 30, a total of 3,614 government employes had been dismissed as security risks. Young reported that another 5,696 had resigned at a time when their files contained "unfavorable" security information.

Of the number fired, 449 were VA employes.

The Senate civil service subcommittee is reviewing the Ladejinsky case as part of a general study of the Eisenhower administration's government security program.

Subjected to close questioning by subcommittee aides, Benson acknowledged it would have been better all around if the security question had never been raised in connection with Ladejinsky, an agricultural attache in Tokyo at the time of his ouster.

Benson agreed with a statement by Henry Edens, a subcommittee counsel, that the risk tag hung on Ladejinsky had been "gratuitous."

Truman Pendergast Mellon Dulles Lewis Bess Truman

Red-Hunting Row Like Witch Craze Of Colonial Days, Truman Writes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Former President Truman attributes the controversy over alleged subversion in government during his administration to a wave of "anti - Communist hysteria" comparable to the "witch craze" of colonial days.

He contends he dealt "calmly" with the situation, which he says brought "indiscriminate branding of innocent persons as subversives" because he knew something of its background from reading the history of previous "waves of hysteria."

These earlier waves, the former President said in the second installment of his "Memoirs," published in the current issue of Life magazine, brought the Alien and Sedition Acts, the "Know-Nothing" movement, the Ku Klux Klan, the Red scare of 1919 and periods of both anti - Catholicism and anti-Masonic feeling.

Truman also tells of how he turned the late Tom Pendergast down flat when the old-time "boss" of Kansas City Democratic politics once approached him with a group of friendly contractors when he was about to let contracts for 10 million dollars in roads. Truman was presiding judge of Jackson County at the time.

KNEW VERY WELL

The ex-President said he knew "very well what was in the wind" and ended up by telling them the contracts would be "let to the lowest bidders" and would be supervised by a bipartisan board of engineers as he had promised in his campaign.

He quoted Pendergast, the "boss" who went to prison later in connection with an income tax fraud investigation, as telling the contractors:

"I told you he's the contrariest man in the State of Missouri."

When the contractors left, Truman said Pendergast told him, "You carry out the agreement you made with the people of Jackson County."

Truman blames the Republicans for the failure in 1922 of the Kansas City haberdashery store he opened after World War I with Eddie Jacobson and $70,000 worth of merchandise.

When Harding became president Truman wrote, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon "started a 'wringing out' process which put farm prices down to an all-time low, raised interest and 'put labor in its place.'"

The store's inventory value shrank from $35,000 to less than $10,000 within a year, the ex-President says, and when he and Jackson closed out "we were hopelessly in debt." They turned over their stock to their creditors.

FILED BANKRUPTCY

Jacobson ultimately was forced to file a petition in bankruptcy, Truman said.

Truman lists John Foster Dulles, now secretary of state, among the "glamor personalities" who fought the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 with testimony before Truman's Senate committee while the "wrecking crew" of Wall Street worked behind the scenes with a barrage of propaganda.

Ultimately, Truman said, 30,000 requests that he vote against the bill — aimed at "destroying the cartels through which the power trusts" were able to keep "exorbitant rates" and "juggle securities"—piled up in his office.

"I burned them all," Truman writes.

Truman can "recall only two senators with whom I would rather not associate and whose word I did not trust." He didn't name them, but he had praise for the late Republican Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, (Mich), and for former Democratic Sens. Burton K. Wheeler (Mont), Carl Hayden (Ariz) and the late Sen. J. Hamilton Lewis (D-Ill).

Sen. Lewis advised the new senator:

"For the first six months you'll wonder how you got here, and after that you'll wonder how the rest of us got here."

Truman writes touchingly of how he first met Bess Truman, then Bess Wallace, who "for me, still has the blue eyes and golden hair of yesteryear."

"We went to Sunday school, public school from the fifth grade through high school, graduated in the same class and marched down life's road together," he says.

Lonardi Sees No Danger From Reds or Peronism

By EDWARD A. MORROW
The New York Times News Service

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 27—Gen. Eduardo Lonardi, provisional President of Argentina's caretaker government, declared here today that the country had nothing to fear from communism or Peronism.

However, leaders of a strong Catholic group of his supporters feared the nation faced a threat of falangism as the President followed up his appointment of Dr. Mario Amadeo by naming Dr. Juan Carlos Gayeneche as the government's press officer. Like Amadeo, Gayeneche has been frequently described as being simultaneously a "flag-bearer of nationalism and Hispano-Americanism."

SUPPORTS CATHOLICS

Falangism is the name given by Franco to the economic and political policies of his government. The Spanish dictatorship strongly supports the Roman Catholic Church.

Answering questions submitted to him by three American newspapermen Lonardi, who had a "Meet the Press" day, said that Argentina had had its "bitter experience of what a totalitarian regime is like." The general said he personally saw a threat to juridical order in communism.

"The platforms of various parties should respect the fundamental principles of society. The cabinet and the consultative bodies which will be established will have to study the problems of the compatibility of communism with the free institutional life of the republic," he said.

BITTER EXPERIENCE

He added that love of liberty is "profoundly ingrained in our tradition" and explained that the past 10 years have been a bitter totalitarian experience for the nation. "We don't believe therefore that communism could deceive anyone nor consequently constitute a serious threat."

The President issued this statement after explaining that he felt Peronism was no longer a threat to his regime. He also said in its relations with the United States the government hopes that "a true community of Democratic and Republican ideas will contribute to make more firm the cordial, true and traditional friendship which has existed" between the two countries.

Gracie, George, Jobless AF Camels, Go Wandering Off To See Morocco

RABAT, French Morocco, Sept. 27 (AP) — Everybody in Morocco is worried about possible nationalist violence, but the big U.S. Nousaseur air base today had an extra headache—a pair of missing camels.

The beasts, a blonde named Gracie and a brunette named George, apparently strolled off the base past a none too alert guard. No trace of them has been found despite an intensive search by S/Sgt. Clarence H. Hall of Grants Pass, Ore., in charge of animals at the base.

Gracie and George performed no real work; their job was strictly scenic. Officers explained they belonged to "Operation Glad Hand," the term for the welcome given junketing VIPs. They supplied the local color for amateur photographers among the visitors.

Solons Probing Navy Jets That 'Won't Fly'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—A congressional inquiry was launched today into charges the Navy spent millions of dollars on jet fighter planes that won't fly and in which two test pilots were killed.

Rep. Chet Holifield (D-Calif), chairman of a House Military Operations subcommittee ordered the subcommittee staff to make an immediate preliminary fact-finding inquiry.

"If there is a substantial question of faulty procurement by Navy officials, our subcommittee will want to pin down the responsibility," Holifield said in a statement issued through subcommittee aides.

The inquiry was requested by Rep. Frank M. Karsten (D-Mo), in a letter to Rep. Dawson (D-Ill.), who referred it to Holifield's subcommittee.

Karsten said the Navy accepted 56 F3H1 "Demon" jet fighter planes produced by the McDonnell Aircraft Corp. despite the fact that their Westinghouse jet engines were not powerful enough to carry them. He said six of the planes crashed during test flights, killing two pilots.

The Navy acknowledged "breakdowns" occurred in the Westinghouse engines and said it is converting 29 of the jets to a more powerful but cheaper motor built by Allison Division of General Motors Corp.

50 Women To Serve As 'Ambassadors'

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—A new women's organization plans to send 50 American women — one for every state and the two territories —around the world to foster world harmony through study of the United Nations.

The group is called Community Ambassador for World Understanding. The "ambassadors" are to be chosen by nomination [illegible] written by high school seniors in each state.

Jess Barker Named in Suit On Paternity

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27 (AP)—An intimate love affair with actor Jess Barker began on their second date, a movie bit player testified today.

Miss Doughty

Represented as an expectant mother, Yvonne Doughty, 25, asked Superior Judge Elmer Doyle to make a preliminary order requiring Barker to pay $1,000 medical expenses immediately and reasonable support after birth of the child, expected in November.

Barker's attorneys, S. S. Hahn and Loyd Saunders, said he will deny the paternity charges. The preliminary order was asked pending trial of Miss Doughty's paternity suit.

Barker currently is involved in court proceedings with his former wife, actress Susan Hayward, over custody of their twin sons. Miss Hayward was awarded an interlocutory divorce decree on Aug. 17, 1954, but Barker made an appeal which still is pending.

Miss Doughty said she met Barker in February 1954, when he visited a restaurant operated by her mother. She testified they began dating and on the second night they were together the intimate love affair began. Later, she said, they shared an apartment.

She added that Barker paid the rent on one apartment they occupied and she had rented another where they often stayed.

"If he didn't stay with me, I stayed with him where he was living," she told Judge Doyle.

No Need for Haste In 'Relieving' Ike

It is a good thing that Washington seems to be recovering from a sort of temporary hysteria brought on by the President's heart attack. While easy to understand, there is no reason for panic nor for hasty action in delegating presidential powers to others.

Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell brought a note of sanity into the situation yesterday in announcing that because of "encouraging" news from Denver it may not be necessary to deliver a legal opinion on the question of delegating any of Mr. Eisenhower's powers during his illness.

There was much talk about taking just such action, of giving government responsibility to Vice President Nixon and others within the official family.

Such hasty moves could lead to a quick disintegration of the Eisenhower administration and an abrupt halt to the continuity of policies set by him as president. It could lead to rivalries and jealousies and jockeyings for position that would make effective administration impossible.

Meanwhile, government machinery is ample to take care of any immediate problems. Vice President Nxion is fully capable of presiding at cabinet meetings and of subbing at official functions. The administration's policies are so well set that only in the event of a prolonged illness is there genuine cause for alarm.

His physicians say the President is getting along fine and promise complete recovery. It is almost a certainty that he will not be able to seek re-election, but he is President of the United States for 15 more months and that is the way the people want it. They pray for his recovery and are willing to wait for his doctors' promises to be fulfilled.

Not until his doctors certify that the President will not be able to perform his functions will there be a need to divide and delegate his powers nor to remove from his hands the right of final executive decision. Should such an eventuality develop, the President himself could and will take the necessary action.

Until such action becomes necessary, the country prefers that Ike remain as President and wants no part of his authority given hastily to others.

Freeway Plan Advisable Despite State Auditor

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher is a good auditor. We have thought so for a long, long time.

But we emphatically do not believe he knows anything about highway construction or the design of modern highway systems. Especially do we think he is not expert enough to interfere with the plans of those who are pre-eminent in that field.

We are astonished to find that Mr. Thrasher is stating he will attempt to block the plans of the engineers of the State Highway Board and of the city and county in their key plans to make effective the multi-million-dollar expressway plan. We do not believe the State Legislature elected Mr. Thrasher to run the Highway Department as well as the auditing of the state.

Mr. Thrasher is speaking as chairman of the State Office Building Authority. In this capacity he disagrees with the top traffic designer for the U. S. Department of Highways as well as with Harry W. Lochner, who was hired by Gov. Marvin Griffin and the State Highway Board to plan for the necessary completion of the expressway system. It is necessary that Mitchell street, SW, be kept open with a relatively narrow ramp which Mr. Thrasher seems to think would interfere with his authority to build state office buildings. Surely common sense will prevail along with the designs of men who know their business. We cannot conceive that Mr. Thrasher, whom we sincerely admire as an auditor, will stubbornly and willfully oppose what will serve millions of people merely to have his own way with the state building authority.

World's Best Golfer And That's Not All

Twenty-five years ago Robert T. Jones Jr. brought glory to himself and Atlanta by winning golf's four major prizes in one season, a feat that never has been equalled.

Last night friends of Jones did him honor on the 25th anniversary of his capture of the fourth and final crown, the U.S. Amateur at the Merion Cricket Club near Philadelphia.

Earlier the champion had won the British Amateur at St. Andrews, the British Open at Holyoke and the U.S. Open at the Interlachen course at Minneapolis. This done, Jones returned home, as quiet and modest as always, and settled down to the business of living.

The silver anniversary celebration was held at the Atlanta Athletic Club, the downtown clubhouse of the East Lake Country Club on whose course Jones grew up and learned the control and skill that made him golf's undisputed master.

Jones' golf record still stands after 25 years and indications are that it will stand for a long time to come. Certainly it will never be forgotten as long as golf lives and it seems an imperishable sort of sport.

Bobby Jones' record as a gentleman, a lawyer and fine citizen is just as outstanding as his record as an amateur athlete. The Constitution is delighted to join with his many other friends in saluting him, 25 years after.

Gifts From Foundations Have Enriched America

Although subject to periodic attacks from various and sundry sources, U.S. philanthropic foundations remain as one of the most dynamic and constructive forces in American life. According to the most recent survey, they now have assets of more than 4.7 billion dollars and last year made grants totaling more than 308 million.

These foundations, estimated at 7,300 in number, operate in many fields. They are non-profit in character and support scores of endeavors in the general public interest—education, charity, health, basic research and community welfare. Some are designed to further information programs and research to express certain points of view.

At present the Ford Foundation seems to be the biggest of them all with assets of $493,213,842. Next is the Rockefeller Foundation with $447,686,573. The Duke Endowment, which supports one of the nation's finest and most needed educational institutions—Duke University—has assets of $109,552,000.

Georgia, of course, knows the value of its own foundations. Emory University and many other institutions have shared in benefits from the Candler, Woodruff, Whitehead, Campbell and similar foundations.

Literally millions of American citizens have shared and are sharing in the common benefits of this giving. The overall effect has been to make us a greater and stronger nation. No amount of criticism can tarnish the good that has been done.

Savings Being Scuttled In School Transportation

It looks like all those economies proposed in school transportation by the State Programs Study Committee earlier this year will go by the board as the politically powerful Georgia School Bus Drivers Association swings its weight around.

The committee, it will be recalled, suggested economies in transportation that would have saved upwards of a million dollars in school funds. It recommended such things as county ownership of buses, elimination of unnecessary mileage, employment of student drivers and uniformity in purchasing and maintenance.

Gov. Marvin Griffin, who reportedly received strong backing in last year's campaign from the bus drivers, has now in effect nullified these recommendations.

In a letter to the State Board of Education directing that additional funds be allocated for school transportation to 80 counties, the governor declared, "It is my desire that no county receive less for transportation this year than it did last." He also expressed opposition to forcing counties to public ownership of school buses "against the will of local authorities."

Georgia's transportation costs per pupil thus will remain higher than most neighboring states—in some cases more than twice as high. While the state struggles for funds to pay its teachers and to take care of the steady influx of new students, school transportation will preserve its extravagant, uneconomical status quo.

Wausau (Wis.) Record-Herald

The Associated Press dispatch noted that a quarter century before the American Revolution the colonial government of Virginia brought up and burned an extra heavy tobacco crop to keep the price from going down. The United States government 200 years later, the report pointed out, still follows that basic price propping pattern, although instead of destroying surplus farm products it now stores them at the staggering over-all storage cost of $20,000 an hour.

'F.D.R. Blazed Path That Is Extremely Hard To Obliterate,' Georgian Says to Politicians

Smyrna — It was sudden, shocking, depressing and very difficult for the average American citizen to realize the significance of the death of beloved President Franklin D. Roosevelt on April 12, 1945.

America was at grips with two powerful enemies in the midst of World War II but the sudden and unexpected passing of this great man overshadowed even this grave and dangerous situation.

The American people realized he had made many mistakes but they also realized he had fought a brave and unselfish fight, often unappreciated by his enemies, for their general welfare, their right to earn an honest living, to provide for them in old age and to promote the general prosperity for the enjoyment of one and all.

Our present-day politicians would do well to heed his example because he has blazed a path that is extremely hard to obliterate.

Georgia Chastises Atlanta Policeman

Dallas — After reading about the murder of Mrs. Barron, I can understand how the many crimes in Atlanta have been unsolved.

The police, who answered the call of the neighbor that heard a woman's scream, certainly didn't do much investigating. Had they gone to the back door they would have seen the house was forced open. Did they expect the screaming women to meet them?

The police who investigated the murder certainly looked close and combed the area for clues, when they couldn't find the man's body 300 feet away. This important find had to be handled by school boys.

'Peron Should Retire To Dictator Colony'

St. Louis — Dictators have a way of being up today and down tomorrow or here today and gone tomorrow.

When things get too hot or too cold for birds, they have a place to go but not so with less favored dictators.

Some living dictator should start a fallen dictator colony where the fallen could seek refuge.

To give atmosphere to such a colony, the man who governed it could be called "Chief of Dictators." Peron may be halfway between here and gone so, no doubt, he would like to sign up in a retired status.

George vs. Talmadge Is Strange Situation

WASHINGTON—When the German government was criticized this week for establishing diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union German Ambassador Heinz L. Krekeler did what many another ambassador here has done in the past. He sought out Sen. Walter F. George of Georgia to explain.

In this case Ambassador Krekeler flew to Georgia and visited the senator in his simple cottage in Vienna, Ga., explaining in the process that he just happened to be in the vicinity visiting the German Consulate in Atlanta.

The incident illustrates the immense power of the 77-year-old Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and also points up the paradox of the senator's position.

For it is not at all certain—indeed, it is highly unlikely—that Sen. George, for all his influence here and elsewhere in the world of foreign affairs, will be able to defeat Herman Talmadge in his campaign for re-election next year.

This is one of the strangest anomalies in the recent history of American politics, for while Georgia is proud of the achievements of Sen. George, young Herman Talmadge's ambitions and the peculiarities of the Georgia election laws may very well bring the senator down.

Talmadge is now going about the state campaigning for the Democratic senatorial nomination. He is attacking Sen. George for, as he says, not taking a firm stand in favor of racial segregation. He is opposing foreign aid and arguing that Sen. George is giving away the federal government's money to foreigners instead of getting it for Georgia.

Another paradox in the present situation is that, while Sen. George and Talmadge are about as far apart in their political views as possible, their financial support in the state comes very largely from the same group of people.

Nor is it certain, or even likely, that in this situation the large contributors in the state will choose to support Sen. George. As a conservative and a former chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Mr. George has often voted in favor of the large corporations which provide a great deal of the campaign funds, but he does not always vote as his backers would like.

Moreover, George is 77 and Talmadge 42, and thus, in the eyes of many big contributors, the senator is going while "Hummon" is coming.

Both in Washington and in Georgia there is immense interest in this situation. It has been brought to President Eisenhower's attention. The administration will, no doubt, do whatever it can to demonstrate that with Sen. George in the Senate, the State of Georgia will get all the assistance possible.

At the same time, if Sen. George is defeated in the Democratic primary or withdrawn from the race, every effort will be made to see that he is appointed to a position where he will be able to carry on his work in the field of foreign affairs.

When he was governor of the state, Mr. Talmadge had large federal funds to distribute and he developed strong support in the country districts. His following is in the 121 counties that have two unit votes and in many of the 30 counties that have four unit votes.

Thus, under Georgia's novel unit voting system, he could lose the eight large six unit counties, and defeat Mr. George on a unit vote basis even if he did not have the support of a majority of the voters.

Had You Heard About Rowan?

An armchair vacation is a good way to catch up on back reading. It is a time one can turn to magazines that have been piling up around the house. That it, it is, if one can resist successfully such slanted appeals as, "Do you think it is too early to take the screens down?" or "That drawer still sticks. You know, the one you were going to fix when you 'had time'."

Resisting and turning to a magazine saved for "when I had time," I learned that an Army lieutenant named Andrew S. Rowan had penetrated the interior of Cuba looking for a fellow named Garcia. Found him, too.

That goes to show how far behind with one's reading one can get.

The magazine was "The Puritan," published in New York by Frank Munsey. The issue was of September, 1898.

I had heard about a message to Garcia, but until I read "The Puritan" I did not know that Rowan was jumped from a lieutenant to lieutenant colonel for passing the word. Nor was I aware that the special messenger was a West Point graduate who had served in Guatemala with the Intercontinental Railway Survey. That way he learned to speak Spanish probably better than Garcia himself could.

There is no such thing these days as useless information. Who knows, the category might be the Spanish-American War.

Also in the stack of unfinished business was a magazine called Truth. Not Confidential, Low Down, Hush-Hush, Expose, Stoop, Squat or Squint, most of which can be found on your newsstand.

Just plain Truth, published in New York in 1902 as "sound, clean and fearless . . . not a dull line; not an objectionable feature."

The cover design is by Charles Frederick Naegele, the portrait artist, who lived out his declining years in Cobb County, Ga. The advertisement on the back is for "'Miebis', The New Egyptian Cigarette," cork-tipped and made only "from the best Turkish tobacco procurable."

Truth's final fling at humor goes like this:

Old Automobilious (solus): I am going to sell my motor car and give up. As a chauffeur I'm a complete failure. Not but that I can climb trees all right, but somehow I can never seem to hit pedestrians in the right spot. They all come out of the hospital within a week, do my worst.

The year was 1902. Don't say we weren't warned!

The 1955 version, handed to me as a couplet by Atlantan Hilary Gardner, goes like this:

"Around the corner, lickety-split—Beautiful car, wasn't it?"

Harold Martin

The Yellow Jackets Had No Preference

A friend of mine who owns a small boy came into the office the other morning looking distraught. He went home, whistling blithely, one afternoon recently, to find his small son looking as lumpy as a squash. It seems there had been a little rain, which had stopped, and the boys in the neighborhood had gone out in the woods to shake saplings on each other. Shaking saplings on each other is a pastime that only small boys could look upon as sport. It consists of walking through the woods and when somebody comes under a small tree whose leaves are heavy with raindrops you give the trunk of the tree a hard buffet and this drops a shower of raindrops on your companions, getting them wet. It gets you just as wet but that does not make any difference.

Suddenly they discovered that the raindrops had fire in them. They shook a tree and down came a cascade of little buzzing insects with hot pokers in their tails—yellow jackets, my friend says, but I think they must have been hornets or wasps, for yellow jackets do not live in trees. I know where yellow jackets live. They live in the ground under houses, where it is always dry.

I know about that, for once when I was about as tall as an axe handle, I went out to my grandpa's house to spend a summer holiday and the first thing I did, naturally, was to go exploring. There was a lot of old junk up under the house, broken buggy wheels and worn-out plow points and one thing or another. So I crawled up under there on my hands and knees and started poking about. I found a little hole in the ground about as big as the end of my finger and poked a stick in it. When I pulled the stick out of the hole, eight million yellow jackets came out of it like a yellow rope and all of them stung me. The stinging wasn't so bad as what I did to my head. A man can't crawl fast on his hands and knees and I raised up and tried to run and hit my head on every sleeper under the house. They were hard, old heart pine, and they didn't give when I hit them. I came out from under there with big, lumpy bruises where I had hit the sleepers, and there were splinters in the bruises.

When I came out from under the house hollering and crying Grandpa started laughing. He laughed for about an hour, while my Aunt Sarah put salt and butter on my yellow jacket stings. Grandpa said crying and taking-on over a few yellow jacket stings just went to prove what he had always said — that town boys weren't no count. They lacked fiber and stamina.

Then, just about the time Grandpa was finishing his dissertation on town boys and their shortcomings, a yellow jacket came out from under the porch and hit Grandpa just above the right ear and knocked him plum out of his chair. You should have heard Grandpa holler. He was hollering for someboy to bring him some tobacco juice to put on his sting, but nobody in the family chewed tobacco, for Grandpa wouldn't stand for anybody chewing tobacco. So we had to send way down to a cabin where an old colored man named Bill Diamond lived and bring Bill up to the house to chew some tobacco and plaster it on Grandpa's head. Grandpa, I remember, looked very unsanitary with that cud of tobacco stuck on his head.

I asked Grandpa how it was that he hollered so loud when the yellow jacket stung him, since he never had been a sorry town boy, lacking in stamina, but had been a country boy all his life. He never did answer that. But I heard him later telling folks that he was afraid I didn't have good sense. Nobody but an ignorant town boy, he said, would go around poking sticks in yellow jackets' nests.

'Cans'---Not 'Can'ts' Will Bring Success

Vast numbers of people are victims of the obstacle complex. These people have become convinced that certain difficulties or circumstances stand in their way and that it is impossible for them to reach the goals in life they most want. Let me illustrate with one of the classic examples of history:

The children of Israel were in bondage in Egypt but God had put into their minds the vision of a better life. He had promised them a land—a land in which they would have all that they wanted. During their hard labor and extreme want, they were sustained by the hope of their Promised Land. Finally the day came when their dreams began to come true.

At least they made a start. Under the leadership of Moses they threw off the bondage of Pharaoh and moved out of Egypt. It was a long and painful journey of 40 years but along the way they had many evidences of the power of God. He divided the Red Sea and brought them safely out on the other side. He guided them through the wilderness with a pillow of cloud by day and of fire by night. He provided food day by day.

Finally, they reached the very border of their Promised Land. There they stopped to ask questions. That was their first mistake. They began to ask, "Can we possess the land?" God had promised it to them; again and again He had proven His power and His willingness to help them but now they hesitated. For nine generations they had been in bondage, for 40 years they had struggled across the wilderness — why did they hesitate on the border? They had everything to gain and nothing to lose but still they hesitated.

Shakespeare was right when he said, "There is a tide in the affairs of men, which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune; omitted, all the voyage of their life is bound in shallows and in miseries."

They appointed a committee of 12 to spy out the land. The committee reported it was a good land, "flowing with milk and honey." Caleb spoke up and said, "Let us go up at once and possess it; for we are well able to overcome it." But others on the committee said, "We are not able to go up against the people; for they are stronger than we . . . there we saw giants . . . and we were in our own sight as grasshoppers" (Numbers 13:30-33).

It is a lot easier to surrender to giants than it is to fight them, so they stopped. They became victims of the obstacle complex. They murdered their opportunity, they lost their chance.

Remember: Success comes in cans, failure in can'ts. So get hold of a can-opener and start using it.

Three Californians Move to GOP Fore

WASHINGTON—Seldom has a political party faced such a discouraging puzzle as the Republican Party seems to face to pull itself together and find someone to replace the President as party leader and candidate next year.

What the party is short of also in meeting its dilemma is time. After a defeat at the polls, such as both parties suffer periodically, there is always four years ahead—more it often turns out—to pick up the pieces and begin over. The time available for the Republican Party between now and next August, when the national convention will meet, may not be enough to do the needed job of recovery and yet be plenty of time for things to get badly fouled up in the melee of conflicting ambitions and divergent philosophies.

It has been recognized generally since the President's attack how much the party is the victim of its own one-track course—the absolute reliance upon the "indispensable man"—and how right the President, himself, was when he warned about such a course as long as a year ago.

Now the party has got to rely upon itself, with the frank confession to itself that, for one thing, it is still weaker as a party than the Democratic Party and that it did not win the 1952 election on its own but only because it had the luck to get such a man as President Eisenhower to carry its banner.

Yet the politicians have got the job to do and within the party. It is quite a test—of the two-party system as well as of this party.

In three figures from California high in party prestige and in the government we may see the Republican picture symbolized.

Upon Vice President Nixon falls the immediate task of organizing what might be called the interregnum and keeping the party factions from flying apart.

In another Californian, Sen. William F. Knowland, we have the symbol of another element in the party situation—the large and influential faction, now quiescent but still extent, that once rallied about the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

In still a third Californian—Chief Justice Earl Warren, three-times governor, a 1944 vice presidential candidate, a candidate for the 1952 nomination—the party has the man the Eisenhower wing of the party thinks would be the candidate with the best chance to beat the Democrats next year.

Small Loan Law Ruling On Private Banks Sought

By JACK NELSON

Georgia's 51 private banks probably are operating in violation of the Georgia Industrial Loan Act, Commissioner Zack Cravey said Tuesday.

Cravey said he plans to issue a small-loan license under the act to the People's Bank of Baxley, a privately owned institution. The bank recently applied for the license.

The loan commissioner said that to operate within the law, he believes the private banks will have to be licensed under the Industrial Loan Act. He said loans now being made by these banks apparently would be "null and void" if the borrowers elected not to repay the banks.

Thus, the General Assembly, which in the past has turned down legislation which would control private banks, may have unwittingly brought them under Cravey's control through passage of the 1955 loan act. The act expressly exempts banks authorized to operate under federal and state laws.

Last January the Senate passed —but the House killed—a bill which would have prohibited the opening of new private banks in Georgia.

More than half of the country's private banks are located in Georgia. There are 45 in 10 other states.

Georgia's private banks have total deposits estimated at $7,500,000.

Cravey said he would ask Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook for an official opinion on the bank question. He said that if Cook confirms his opinion, he will take action to make the banks conform with the loan act.

The State Banking Department several times has expressed concern over the state's increasing number of private banks, which operate without official jurisdiction or deposit insurance. It was disclosed that one private bank in Georgia was forced to close even as the House was killing a bill to prevent establishment of new banks last January. The bank had deposits listed at $35,000 and assets totaling only $10,000.

Eleven private banks have been established in the state in the past five years. Two opened this year and another is slated to open soon.

Thirty-seven states have laws prohibiting private banking. Nine other states have one or more private banks, but have passed laws prohibiting the opening of new ones.

Wilson Due To Inspect Bibb Plant

By BERT SPENCER

Secretary of Defense Wilson will inspect the U.S. naval ordnance plant near Macon Wednesday, presumably in preparation for a decision on whether to approve a $3,800,000 modernization program there.

Wilson will be accompanied by Rep. Vinson of Milledgeville, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

The defense secretary is scheduled to arrive by plane at Warner Robins AFB near Macon at 11 a.m., accompanied by several of his top assistants.

Capt. J. I. Cone, commanding officer of the ordnance plant, said the secretary will be on a very tight schedule and will be in Macon "only a few hours."

Congress left the final decision on construction of a new building at the plant up to Wilson. A House committee killed the original $3,800,000 appropriation request for the structure, but a Senate-House conference committee restored it, subject to Wilson's certification that the construction is essential.

One of the major naval ordnance facilities in the country, the Macon plant manufactures ammunition components. The plant employs about 1,500 civilians.

The projected building would be used for manufacturing units now "inadequately" housed at the plant, Capt. Cone explained.

Meanwhile, the Associated Press reported Wilson canceled a news conference scheduled at the Pentagon Tuesday. It would have been his first formal news session since Aug. 9.

Interior Decorating, Commercial, Taught

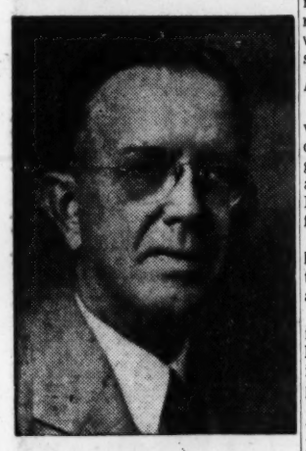

Smith Hughes Vocational School has announced a new course in commercial interior decorating which began Tuesday.

The course, offered through the department of distributive education, will be held each Tuesday from 6:45 to 9:15 p.m.

Registration should be made at the school office, 232 Pryor St., Southwest.

Fess Parker May 'Adopt' Georgia Hills

By PAUL JONES
Constitution Staff Writer

CLAYTON, Sept. 27—Fess Parker is talking about adopting this mountain retreat as his second home.

Fess, tall, handsome star of Walt Disney's latest screen epic, "The Great Locomotive Chase," now being filmed here, has succumbed to the hospitality of the mountain people.

He thinks "they are the most wonderful people in the world."

The star revealed his sentiments Tuesday after he had dinner at the nearby Bynum House, where "Southern cookin'" is a specialty.

ASKS FOR MORE

After finishing off a bowl of vegetable soup, two large slices of fried country ham with red gravy, butter beans, beets, corn and fresh honey and hot biscuits, Fess politely asked the proprietor for a "second helpin'."

Fess told his dinner guests that he had walked the half-mile out to the Bynum House from town, and he was "kinda hungry."

He ate the second helpings of food, drank four glasses of freshly churned buttermilk, and topped it all off with a slice of ice-box pie.

Louis F. Gallagher, superintendent of construction at the Disney Studios, seconds Parker's sentiments. He said:

"I've been back and across the country 12 times working on movie locations, but these mountain people are the greatest folks I've ever met."

FIXED COFFEE

He pointed out to a farmhouse nearby and said: "The kind lady in that house fixed us coffee and brought it to us. And the other night a couple came over to the hotel and took the 12 of us to their home for dinner."

Disney has endeared himself to the people here, and to the hundreds of tourists. He has never passed up an opportunity to climb into the cab of either the Texas or the General, the locomotives involved in the famous War Between the States "chase," and blow the whistle, ring the engine bell and run the engines up and down the tracks in front of the Clayton depot.

This has been great fun for the visitors here.

2 Women Fleece Widow of $2,800

An old confidence game Tuesday cost Mrs. Flora C. Sears, a practical nurse, of 1608 Alder Ct., SE, $2,800—all but $200 proceeds from sale of a house, Dets. O. L. Adams and J. H. Barnes reported.

Mrs. Sears, widow of William A. Sears, said that at Broad and Alabama Sereets, SW, she met a woman who said she had just received $7,000 from an insurance company. She was joined by a second woman, who said she found a package containing $9,600.

They agreed to divide the money three ways equally. Mrs. Sears was instructed to turn her money over to the women, and then meet a man later in a downtown building.

He, they said, would have the money.

He wasn't there. Mrs. Sears called police.

Jury Weighs Nelson Fate Again Today

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

A Fulton Superior Court jury was locked up in an Atlanta Hotel late Tuesday night after deliberating more than five hours without reaching a verdict in the murder case against Harry L. Nelson, 27.

Nelson is one of two DeKalb County convicts charged with murder in connection with the death of Atlanta motorcycle patrolman Clyde L. Ellsberry on July 9.

Ellsberry was fatally injured when a prison station wagon occupied by the two escaped convicts struck his motorcycle on Moreland Avenue, SE.

Visiting Judge Wendell Horne of Cordele ordered the jury locked up for the night at 10:30 p.m. after the jury foreman reported the panel was at a seven-to-five deadlock on its verdict.

TRIAL ON TODAY

The trial was recessed until 9:30 a.m. Wednesday when the jury will continue its deliberations.

In his charge to the jury Judge Horne instructed the jurors they could decide on one of six verdicts in the case. These are:

Guilty of murder with intention to kill, with or without recommending mercy; guilty of murder without intention to do so, but in the commission of an unlawful act, with or without a mercy recommendation, guilty of involuntary manslaughter or a simple not-guilty verdict.

Punishment for these crimes varies from electrocution to imprisonment for from one to five years.

STATE'S CHARGE

The state charged Tuesday that Nelson is just as guilty as the driver because of their conspiracy to escape. The defense, however, contended there was no conspiracy and that Nelson is not guilty of anything.

The other convict, Luther Masters, 33, who was driving the station wagon at the time, earlier was given a life sentence in Ellsberry's death.

In an unsworn statement to the jury, Nelson said he slid down in the seat of the station wagon as Masters failed to obey a policeman's instructions to halt the vehicle. He said he did not see the station wagon hit the officer's motorcycle.

Airport Car Rent Pacts Hit

Rental car service will be excluded from transportation contracts for the Atlanta airport when renewals are made in 1958 if Ald. Jesse Draper, chairman of the aldermanic board's aviation committee, has his way.

Draper emphasized Tuesday that most cities separate drive-yourself contracts from other phases of airport transportation contracts and permit several companies to engage in such operations.

At present, the Atlanta Baggage & Cab Co. has a package contract under which it pays 10 per cent of gross receipts from taxi, bus and car rental service. The figure is expected to exceed $40,000 in city commissions for 1955.

Draper said his information is that when the original contract was made no other company could guarantee to provide all service needed, especially an agreement to meet scheduled air line arrivals with bus and/or other service.

Knife in Brain Gone After 4 Yrs.

COLERAIN, N.C., Sept. 27 (AP). A Colerain man decided to have a knife blade removed from his brain because, as he said, it got sore once in a while.

Paul Lee Riddick had been carrying the point of a saw-toothed knife around in his head for four years. It broke off when he was stabbed during a fight.

He told doctors it only bothered him occasionally, but he decided to have it removed. Dr. J. Gaddy Mathewson, a surgeon at Roanoke-Chowan Hospital performed the operation.

Riddick is doing fine, doctors said.

fixion of the middle class in America by an excessive burden of taxation," he declared.

"Nowhere under the sun," the senator continued, "could you find so large a group of middle class taxpayers as in America."

All segments of society profit if there is "a constantly increasing buying power in the middle and lower classes," he said.

FARM PROBLEM

He expressed alarm that farm prices have continued to decline while operating and living costs still rise. "There must be a review of our problem in this field," he said.

He said he has invited a number of agriculture leaders in Congress to Macon for a conference Nov. 12, to study possible remedies of the problem.

On the world scene, George said:

"I believe the Geneva conference finally broke the tension and we are on the way to real understanding at all poles of the earth."

After his speech, the senator declined to speculate on what effect the President's illness will have on national political activity.

"The decision will have to be the President's. If he does not run, a Democratic candidate will have a much better chance, of course."

KIWANIS ELECTS

The Georgia District Kiwanis convention, which closed Tuesday, elected W. C. Mitchell of Hampton district governor for the coming year. Dr. Glenn Reed Jr. of Marietta was chosen treasurer.

The 13 new lieutenant governors of Kiwanis are:

NOTED SPEAKERS

At the general convention Tuesday morning, speeches were heard by Jimmy Howard, international trustee of Key Clubs from Marietta, and Mark K. Owings, former president of the Circle K Club at Atlanta Division, University of Georgia.

Main speaker for the general convention was Dr. Henry King Stanford, president of Georgia State College for Women.

Speaking on "Education for Better Government," Dr. Stanford said, "It is up to us to translate faith in our children into action for better schools."

Best Reason for Heart Attack Called 'Life'

of all types found among these primitive peoples." Not much tension there, presumably.

2. Is it "obesity," the condition of being grossly overweight?

Life insurance statisticians frequently attach considerable importance to this. Figures seem to indicate a higher incidence of death from heart disease among people seriously over the normal weight levels.

Other researchers disagree. They point out that an athlete, in the pink of condition, may be overweight, but that he is not "fat." He is muscular. So they feel that simple statistics about weight are only part of the story.

WHAT OF HEREDITY?

3. Is it heredity?

Many difficulties confront the researcher in this field. You may or may not know, if you are asked, whether your grandfather died of heart disease. The definitions of diseases in his day were less precise. Heart disease often assumes some other form.

Later in this series, some long-term experiments will be described that may throw some light on the heredity factor.

4. Is it something related to hormones?

Women are far, far less susceptible to heart attacks than men. Only after the middle years does the incidence appear to rise substantially. Why? What is it in the female system that seems to fend off hardening of the arteries, or roughening of the arteries, or clottinf?" This is another area of intense research.

FAT SOLUBLE

5. Is "cholesterol" the villain?

This is a fat-soluble, waxy substance found only in the blood of man and the animals. Dr. Ancel Keys, heading a great research project at the University of Minnesota, has said of it:

"If cholesterol is not the cause of the most serious arteriosclerosis, it is definitely involved somehow. Over extreme ranges at least, there is no doubt there is a relation between the concentration of cholesterol in the blood and the appearance of deposits in the walls of the arteries."

He says cholesterol is present in all meats, especially the fatty parts, in all dairy products, and is particularly abundant in eggs. So, then, is diet the answer?

Doctors point out that the body produces its own cholesterol even when a patient is on a diet very low in this substance. Moreover, the Eskimos, who get most of their calories from the fattest meats, apparently have less heart disease than Americans.

There is, however, a degree of agreement among scientists that the abundant American diet may be a factor in the tremendously complicated problem. For example, it has been pointed out that during World War II, the incidence of heart disease appeared to decline in those nations where diet was restricted.

Nobody can say definitely what causes a heart attack. Specialists generally believe it is a combination of these factors plus perhaps others yet unsighted.

But if science has not yet established the cause, it has made immense strides in understanding and helping the process of repair.

Both Master and Slave

This is about Bobby Jones, who will never be Bob, written on the 25th birthday of his Grand Slam of golf. Of his Impregnable Quadrilateral, as Keeler called it. I wasn't there. I have never seen him hit a golf ball. I am merely a guy who arrived after the show was over and the performers had gone home.

I know him now as an attorney who gets about laboriously and who has learned so gracefully to live with his burden. Perhaps more than anything else I admire him for this grace, for adjusting his athletic being to the limitations required by his cruel fate.

Bisher

Tuesday evening his golf friends gathered and banqueted with him at the Atlanta Athletic Club. There were some speeches, and the reminisences were sweet to the ears, even if they didn't belong to you. It was 25 years ago to the day that Bobby had defeated Gene Homans, 8 and 7, in the final round of the National Amateur at Merion Cricket Club in Ardmore, Pa.

He had won the British Amateur, the British Open and the U.S. Open. This was the fourth side of the quadrilateral. Even then the world was assured it would never happen again. The progress of golf has made this one of the cinches of all history.

Homans himself is important to the story only in that he was the victim marched in for the kill. True, the year before he and Bobby had tied for the medal in the National Amateur. But Homans was a cut below the great players of the time, George Von Elm, Jess Sweetser, Chick Evans and Francis Ouimet. Homans was not a stylish player, but is characterized by Bobby as "one who got a lot out of the game he had."

Incidentally, Homans is no longer able to play himself. He has arthritis of the feet. He came from New Jersey and he has settled there in the insurance business formed by his father. That's what has become of Gene Homans, the last victim in the Grand Slam.

—The Punishment Was Out of Proportion

It isn't easy to comprehend the retirement from competition of an athletic youth of 28. But Bobby had been plotting his retirement at least four years in advance.

"I started looking for a good chance to quit for several years before," he said. "I guess I really decided back in 1926, when I got around to the National Amateur and couldn't get nervous about it. Von Elm beat me in the finals. That's when I felt I should begin to look for a way to quit, when I couldn't get nervous about it.

"I had to be nervous to play my best when I was playing competitively. You don't win playing relaxed. The muscles are relaxed but you're nervous. That's the way it's got to be. Three or four years after I quit I played in my first Masters. I was nervous, but it hurt my game. It's perfectly obvious why. I wasn't keyed for the tension of competition any more.

"Am I amazed at what golf has done for me? I guess you could put it that way. I've seen it do a lot for fellows like Sarazen, Hagen, Diegel and a lot of others. I guess it's sort of like Emerson and the mousetrap, isn't it?

"We lived those days intensely, Keeler and I. I guess when I got out I missed the tension. There's nothing in the world more fun than a real tight golf match. But I'd get wrought over the things, fume and swear at myself for two or three days after a tournament I hadn't won. By the time I was 28, I'd had 14 or 15 years of playing tournaments. I was taking so much out of myself being keyed up and intent on winning. I felt the punishment I was taking was out of proportion to the importance of the thing."

—For the Boom, His Worst Beating

In all his days, Bobby took just one bad beating. The welts have grown out under the soothing balm of time. If it is bitter to him now, there are no outward signs. Newspaper accounts, though, indicate he was cut deeply when Walter Hagen trounced him, 11 and 10, in a special match between the best professional and the best amatur of the times. It was a real estate promotion match staged in the boom of Florida in 1926.

"I was just out of college a couple of years," Bobby said, "and in the real estate business with the Adairs. They bought some real estate near Sarasota and built a residential project. They built a golf course and Tommy Armour was the pro. I was sent to Florida to play the course and attract attention.

"There were other projects like it—Whitfield Estates, they called it—all over Florida, and they all had pros. Sarazen, Diegel, Farrell and Hagen were all down there. Hagen was the pro over at Pasadena, near St. Petersburg. Bob Harlow got the idea of a match between the two of us, with all the money going to Hagen, of course. A home-and-home match was arranged, 18 holes on each course.

"So it came off. Hagen was a great fellow to play against, entertaining and a great competitor. It was the only time we ever met in match play. He finished above me in only one tournament after that, though, in the 1927 Open. Perhaps I was conscious of beating him, but I was always playing my best to beat whomever I had to beat to win."

He found in golf what he wanted. It explains why he was never able to get away from it, as if he had a choice in the matter. "When you put that much of yourself into a thing," he said, "you haven't got much left for anything else."

He was both its master and its slave.

Writers Pick Yanks, 31-18

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—The New York Yankees were almost a 2-1 favorite to whip the Brooklyn Dodgers in the World Series which opens tomorrow among baseball writers polled by the Associated Press today.

Of the 49 writers, representing the nations newspapers and wire services, 31 picked the Yankees. Only 18 figured the Dodgers finally will break the ice and win their first classic.

Most of the experts concluded it will be a six-game series. Only two—Joe Williams of the New York World Telegram and Sun, and Jack Hand of the Associated Press — envision a four-game sweep, and both picked the Yankees.

Yanks Favored, 6-5, To Beat Bums First

Despite Loss of Mantle, New York Gets Series Nod

By JOHN DREBINGER
The New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—Brooklyn's zero hour is only a matter of moments away.

Tomorrow at 12 noon (EST) before a crowd of 67,000 in the Yankee Stadium, the Dodgers will set out on another quest to win their first World Series as they face the Yankees in the opener of the 1955 classic.

Seven times in the past have the Dodgers chased that elusive championship only to meet with failure. In the last five series it was the Bombers who turned them back. But this time the Brooks, led by a calm and collected Walter Alston and with a team that made a runaway of the National League pennant, are hopeful they can make it.

On the mound will be Don Newcombe, a 25-game winning right-hander. Opposing him will be Whitey Ford, a compact little left-hander from Long Island who, with 18 victories, helped Casey Stengel win his sixth American League flag in seven years.

Despite Brooklyn's optimism, the boys who set the betting odds were still stringing along with the Bombers. This, too, despite the continued doubt that Mickey Mantle, the American League's champion home run hitter, would be able to play any part in the series because of a torn muscle in his right thigh.

The Bombers, victors in 16 of the 20 classics they have played since 1921, were being quoted tonight as 13-10 favorites to win this series and 6-5 to take the first game.

The World Series will be on display in color television in the assembly room of the Atlanta Public Library, according to John Settelmeyer, library director. Public is invited for each day's game.

The weather forecast is cloudy with showers, possibly ending in the afternoon.

The event of rain causing a postponement tomorrow, the entire schedule for the series will simply be moved back a day.

Despite the many uncertainties concerning his starting line-up, Stengel appeared surprisingly relaxed as he sat quietly in his cubicle under the Stadium stands this afternoon, shortly before the Dodgers arrived for their workout. The Yanks had their final drill in Ebbets Field.

Casey, however, did not accompany his players to Flatbush. Forced to visit his dentist in the morning, he decided wait in his office until time to go down for the final series "briefing" before Commissioner Ford C. Frick.

Stengel said he actually would not know about Mantle until just before game time tomorrow. As a result he steadfastly refused to be pinned down on his line-up.

However, he indicated that with the Oklahoman out of it, Irv Noren would be in center field, Elston Howard in left and Hank Bauer in right.

Phil Rizzuto, dean of Yankee players as he enters his ninth World Series, will be at short, although Casey hinted that he might make a last-minute switch to Jerry Coleman. Li'l Phil did great work for the Bombers during the September stretch until felled by a pitched ball. He was a bit unsteady after that.

Meanwhile, Alston seemed to have no problems whatever. For all that, he is going into this conflict with a mound staff that all but fell apart in the second half of the season.

Rizzuto's counterpart in the Dodger line-up, the redoubtable Pee Wee Reese, again will be at short and in far better shape than his rival.

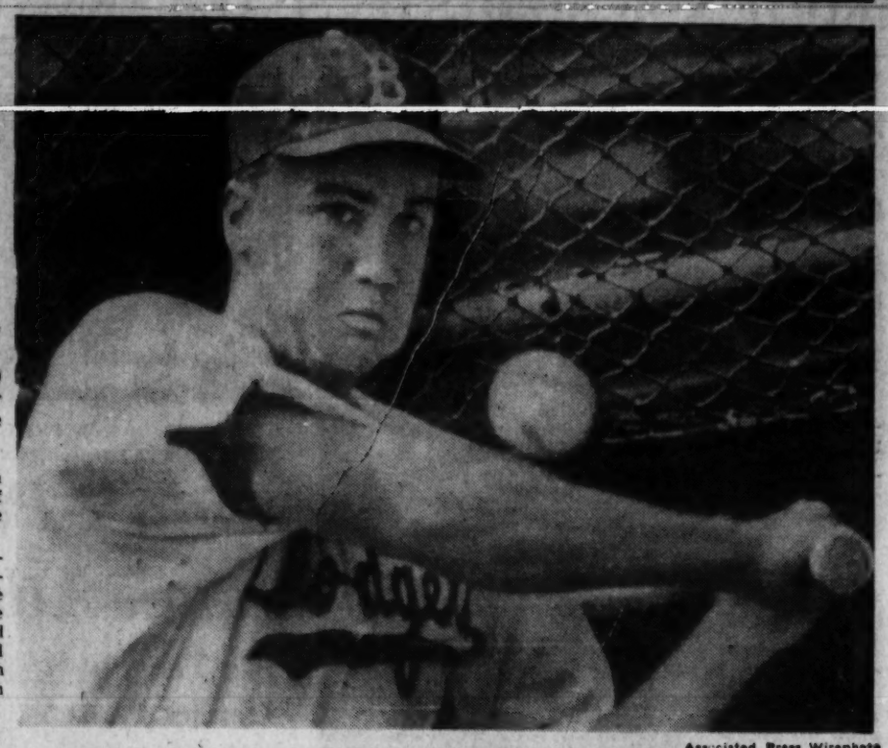

Jackie Robinson, moving into his fifth series with the Brooks, will be on third.

All the other standbys, such as the durable Roy Campanella, Duke Snider, Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo, will be there to give it one more try.

NBC Hires Lippy; Lane Wires Cards

Durocher $1,000-a-Week Man; Ex-White Sox GM Seeks Post

Condensed From Wire Reports

While Leo Durocher, erstwhile manager of the New York Giants took over a $1,000-a-week job with the National Broadcasting Company Tuesday, soon-to-be-jobless general manager of the Chicago White Sox Frank Lane went hunting a position in the baseball world.

Leo-the-Lip, in his farewell to 30 years of baseball, was characterized by NBC press agents as "a new quiet, conservative network executive." He will fill in on sports newscasts, and serve in an executive capacity in sports scheduling.

Lane, meanwhile, said he had wired St. Louis Cardinal owner, Gussie Busch, that he "has tux, will travel" and is available for any rebuilding plans the Cards have. Lane added that he had wired two other baseball clubs, reportedly the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Detroit Tigers. His release from the White Sox becomes effective Oct. 15.

MORE BASEBALL: Danny Menendez, owner of the American Association's independent Charleston Senators, has been offered general managership of the Memphis Chicks. "But I have a ball club to sell before I make any other plans," he said. . . . Shortstop Ted Kazanski of the International League Syracuse Chiefs failed to show up in a Richmond, Va., court to answer assault charges growing out of a fight after a ball game. A $100 bond was ordered forfeited and an attachment was issued for Kazanski's arrest.

FOOTBALL: The United Press rated Georgia Tech third in the nation, Maryland first and Michigan second. . . . Pro football needs television to survive, Detroit Lions general manager Nick Kerbawy claimed, pointing out the pro teams get one-sixth of their receipts from TV. . . . Brutus Hamilton resigned as athletic director for the University of California, but will stay as track coach.

MISCELLANEOUS: Archie Moore was quoted in San Diego as saying he'd give up his light heavyweight crown for another fight with Rocky Marciano who kayoed him in Yankee Stadium in the ninth round last week.

O'Malley Signs With Steelers

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 27 (AP)—The National Football League's Pittsburgh Steelers today signed two free agents, both ex-members of the Chicago Bears.

The new Steelers are Joe O'Malley, a rookie end from Georgia, and fullback Leon (Muscles) Campbell, a NFL veteran of three years.

Didn't Plan Life of Golf, Jones Admits At Banquet

Big Turnout Honors Feat

By BERT PRATHER

Bob Jones, the greatest golfer of all time, didn't even start out to be a golfer. "In fact," said Bob, speaking at the 25th anniversary dinner commemorating his winning of golf's Grand Slam Tuesday night at Atlanta Athletic Club, "I didn't start out to be anything."

"But my father took me over to East Lake Country Club because he didn't think he could raise me anywhere else, and through natural course of events I became interested in the game.

"The members of East Lake were kind enough to let me in the club championship at the age of 11. From then on they were always helpful to me. My father, at personal sacrifice, bless him, made it possible to play in many tournaments from then on."

Thus, the man who won 13 National championships and wound up his sensational career by taking the British Amateur and Open and U.S. Open and Amateur championships in the same year (1930) modestly summed up the beginning of one of the greatest careers in sports.

However, his start in the game was much more colorful and interesting than Bob put it, but it was in keeping with the Grand Slam King's character. He'll always be a modest man. This was proved Tuesday night. The program committee had arranged for Bob and his father, Colonel Bob, to come into the huge Doonan Hall after the crowd of 500 had been seated. When Bob heard about this, he said, "Let's go, I want to go in with the rest of the folks. After all this is a party among homefolks." But against his protest, the committee stalled him off and the entrance was greeted by a standing ovation.

Harold Sargent, secretary of the Professional Golfers' Association of America and pro at East Lake Country Club, spoke on behalf of the PGA, praising Jones as the greatest golfer and sportsman of all time.

T. R. (Dick) Garlington, one of Bob's closest friends, spoke as a representative of the United States Golf Assn.

Ed Miles, Atlanta Journal golf writer, had the honor of introducing Jones and did a splendid job of it.

Ed recalled the closeness of Jones and the late Journal golf writer O. B. Keeler. How they had worked as the greatest team of player and writer of all time. This brought on many misty eyes and Bob choked up slightly himself as he referred to the great influence O. B. had on his career later in his own speech.

Jones said, "Bobby Dodd (Georgia Tech football coach who was among the big throng) once told me that two football teams could play the greatest game in the world and it would not amount to much if there were no one there to see it.

"O. B. was always there to tell the world about me and see to it that the other boys in the press tent did likewise."

The party looked like the Who's Who of Atlanta and Southern golf. Among the outstanding golfers present were former British Amateur King Charley Yates; former Southern champions Watts Gunn, Tommy Barnes, Arnold Blum, Gene Dahlbender Jr. and present champ Charles Harrison.

Since the party was kept more or less local, by Bob's request, there were many congratulatory messages from afar. Among them a letter from President Eisenhower, which was sent to the program committee several weeks ago, upon receiving an invitation from the Atlanta Golf Assn. president Russell Gill. Gill, who served as toastmaster, read the President's letter and then gave it to Bob to put among his momentoes of the occasion.

Rev. Harrison, McMains, executive secretary of Atlanta Christian Council, opened the program with a prayer for the speedy recovery for President Eisenhower.

The party closed with Gill presenting a portable TV set to Bob for his wife Mary. The set carried an inscription "To Mary Malone Jones, silent partner of the Grand-Slam, 1930."

Tech Adds Hair, Metcalf to Staff

Two student assistants have been added to the Georgia Tech freshman coaching staff, Head Coach Bobby Dodd announced Tuesday.

The new coaches are Henry Hair, an all-Conference end for Tech last year, and Bobby Metcalf, a former B-team fullback whose career was curtailed by an injury.

Hair, top draft choice of the Los Angeles Rams last year, was a standout for the College All-Stars in their August victory over the Cleveland Browns. A pending military draft call kept him from following a pro career immediately and he re-enrolled in school. Both new coaches are from Atlanta.

They will help take up the slack when current freshman coaches Byron Gilbreath and Jim Nolan leave for basketball duty.

Mizell's One-Hit Gem Gives Macs Army Title

FT. BELVOIR, Va., Sept. 27 (AP). Third Army's Ft. McPherson, Ga., captured the all-Army double-elimination baseball tournament tonight on the sensational pitching of Wilmer Mizell, who hurled a 9-0 shutout over Fourth Army's Ft. Hood, Tex.

Mizell, a former St. Louis Cardinall fireballer, pitched a one-hitter and struck out 13 batters. The bat power was provided by the winners by the three hits apiece whacked out by Tom Quakenbush of the Chicago Cubs, Norm Siebern of the Birmingham Barons and Billy Moran, $45,000 Cleveland Indian bonus player.

In an earlier game today Ft. McPherson defeated Ft. Hood, 7-1, evening their performances at one loss apiece in the tournament.

Auburn Line Depth Worries Woodruff

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Sept. 27 (AP)—Florida's football squad is preparing for two big Auburn lines in this Saturday's game at Auburn.

"We expect to face one of the toughest teams in the Southeastern Conference Saturday, for Auburn has been ranked No. 1 or 2 by almost everyone," said Florida coach Bob Woodruff.

"We also expect Auburn to field two of the biggest lines in the SEC, headed by tackle Frank D'Agostino and center Bob Scarbrough."

Florida sees a battle between Auburn's Joe Childress and Fob James and the Gators' Jackie Simpson and Don Chandler.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Vanderbilt's coach Art Guepe sent his footballers through one of the roughest practice sessions of the year Tuesday and said he wasn't satisfied with the offense.

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Kentucky held a long, rough practice session ending under the lights with emphasis on pass defense preparation for its next football foe, Villanova. Injured end Bradley Mills was held out of the drill.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Coach Bowden Wyatt sent his Tennessee gridders through a long offensive scrimmage, getting ready for Saturday's home stand against Duke. Four sophomores ran on the first string, center Dave Stottlemeyer, guard Bill Johnson, blocking back Stockson Adkins and fullback Tommy Bronson.

STATE COLLEGE, Miss.— Coach Darrell Royal of Mississippi State announced two players, guard Ted Vallas and tackle Stan Dahoda, had quit the squad. The Maroons conclude heavy practice Wednesday for Saturday's home opener with Memphis State.

NEW ORLEANS, La. — Halfback Al Cottrell showed top running form and quarterback Gene Newton was hitting ends Eddie Khayat and Jack Montgomery regularly as Tulane had a contact session. Coach Andy Pilney switched quarterback Bruce Waters to end.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. — Alabama ran through a tough scrimmage Tuesday, marked by quarterback Albert Elmore's completion of eight passes in 11 attempts, three for touchdowns.

Bears Whip Sports For Dixie Series

Mobile Wins 4th Straight: Hoffman Pitches Clincher

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 27 (AP)—Mobile of the Southern Assn. backed up a four-hitter with power at the plate to defeat Shreveport of the Texas League 9-2 tonight for its first Dixie Series championship in 33 years.

The Bears, Southern playoff winners, snatched the best of seven series from the Texas playoff victors in four straight games —two at Shreveport and two here.

A bases-loaded double by catcher Herb Olson in the first was all the Bears needed to give the victory to righthander Bob Hoffman.

The Bears continued to score, however, getting two in the third on first baseman Jim Gentile's home run over the right-field fence and four in the sixth.

One of the four hits Hoffman gave up, a home run by right-fielder Pridge Browne over the right centerfield fence in the sixth, brought in the Sports' two runs.

The Bears had gained the Dixie by subduing pennant-winning Memphis and second place Birmingham in the playoffs after squeezing into fourth place the last day of the season. Shreveport, third place finisher in the Texas League, defeated San Antonio and Houston in the playoffs.

Georgia Lands B-P's Gleaton For Cage Club

Curtis Gleaton, standout basketball forward for Brewton-Parker Junior College, has enrolled at the University of Georgia, Coach Harbin (Red) Lawson announced Tuesday.

Gleaton, 6-4, 200-pounder from Newton, had previously signed a grant-in-aid at Kentucky. However, it was discovered he did not have the proper credits for admission as an out-of-state student at Kentucky, which requires fewer courses from in-state students.

Mrs. Mantler Captures Medal

Mrs. M. J. Mantler of the host Standard Town and Country Club, posted a net score of 71 to take medalist honors in the Maier & Berkele handicap tournament Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. H. O. Davis was runner-up in this Atlanta Women's Golf Association event with a 72. Low gross prize went to Mrs. Jim Clay.

Opening round of match play in the championship flight starts at 9:40 with defending champion Irene Aden meeting Mrs. Jim Clay. Mrs. Mantler's first opponent will be Mrs. R. I. Gunnell.

First flight starts at 9 a.m. and second flight at 10:20. The tournament runs through Saturday.

CLEMSON'S KING (L) GETS AID FROM STAND-IN
Charlie Bussey Replaced Him Last Year Against the Bulldogs

HOWARD LOOKING FOR FIRST

Georgians Need Man-Sized Job To Stop King, Wells and Crew

By JESSE OUTLAR
Constitution Sports Writer

CLEMSON, S.C., Sept. 27—During the quarter of a century Frank Howard has spent on the Clemson coaching staff, he has never seen the Tigers beat the University of Georgia.

Twice in the nine years he was an assistant to Jess Neely, Howard watched the Bulldogs do in the Tigers. Since taking over as head man in 1940, Howard has developed three bowl teams, but he has lost five straight games to the Bulldogs.

Other than traditional rival South Carolina, there probably isn't a team in football that Howard had rather topple than Georgia. And his Tigers stand a good chance to score their first victory over Georgia since 1914 when Howard, dean of the ACC with 16 consecutive seasons, sends his troops against Wallace Butts, dean of the SEC with 17 campaigns, here Saturday.

A year ago Georgia upset Clemson, 14-7, as injured quarterback Don King watched from the bench. Billy O'Dell, the hard-driving fullback from Newnan, Ga., and Joel Wells, who ranks high on Clemson's list of all-time halfbacks, also spent more time as spectators than players.

Rest assured, however, they won't be looking on Saturday. They'll be teaming with Joe Pagliei and Jim Coleman, who alternate at right half, in one of the finest starting backfields in college football.

Clemson doesn't have the material to match some opponents up front—it remains to be seen whether they can match the Bulldogs—but the starting backs won't draw second billing to any team on the schedule.

Take King for example. Maryland's Jim Tatum says the 170-pound senior is the best quarterback in the ACC. Georgia Tech coaches compared him with Notre Dame's Ralph Guglielmi two years ago after receiving a scare at Grant Field.

King's lone weakness seems to be a bum knee, which hasn't caused him any trouble since the Georgia game last year. He has led Clemson in total offense for three straight years, rolling up 2,129 yards. And he looked slicker than ever in leading the Tigers to a 20-7 victory over Virginia on a water-logged field last week. Needless to say, Georgia can't match King at quarterback, and few teams can.

Howard, who adheres to the coaches' union in not praising players, forgets himself when talking about Wells. "He could make any team in the country," Howard says, "and he's certainly one of the best all-around backs I've coached."

Statistics and Howard speak for O'Dell, voted the outstanding Class A back in Georgia before coming to Clemson. Against Maryland last year, the 190-pounder outgained Dick Bielski, against Auburn he outgained Joe Childress, against Virginia last week he outgained Jim Bakhtiar, who has been touted as all-America timber.

Pagliei is a rugged 200-pounder at right half, and Coleman is also a topflight back. Quarterback Charlie Bussey, halfback Lem McLendon, 185-pounder from Albany, and fullbacks Neuf Ankuta and Bob Spooner lend depth to the backfield.

Fortunately for Georgia and other foes, the Tigers aren't as deep or exciting up front.

BISHER PIECE CHOSEN FOR SPORT TREASURY

A story by Furman Bisher, sports editor of The Atlanta Constitution, has been chosen for "A Treasury of Sport Stories," a volume compiled by Ed Fitzgerald from Sport Magazine features.

The Bisher piece is "A Letter to My Son," by Rudy York as told to Bisher, and is of special interest to Georgian's as York's background includes Aragon, Atco and Cartersville.

In the introduction to the book, published by Bartholomew House, Editor Fitzgerald links Bisher among "new masters coming along to replace the old." He lists Bisher among the up-and-coming group moving up with Red Smith, John Lardner, Bill Heinz, Jimmy Cannon, Dan Parker, Frank Graham, Arthur Daley, Warren Brown and Emmett Watson.

In the introduction to the Bisher story, Editor Fitzgerald says further:

"Furman Bisher, who wrote this meaningful story for Rudy York's signature after interviewing the old American League slugger extensively, is one of the kingpins of Southern sports writing and one of the brightest new names the business has developed anywhere in the country. Bisher can't miss.

"In this piece he put together everything Rudy told him about his big league career and the lessons he has drawn from it, and wrote them in the form of a letter from Rudy to his 17-year-old son, Joe Wilburn York, who wants to become a professional baseball player."

As Don Shea Goes, So Goes Georgia—and the Man Is Hot

Guard Sparked Bulldogs' Rally

By DAN KITCHENS
Special to The Constitution

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 27—It took the Georgia Bulldogs about six quarters of 1955 football to reach the red hot peak of play they displayed in last year's season finale in Sanford Stadium.

Only the opponent was different. The scene again was the home field, and the sparkplug in the fired-up line was the same—right guard, and this year's alternate captain, Don Shea.

If Shea and the rest of the Bulldog line can duplicate their last week's showing from here on in, even the most rugged of their opponents can look for big trouble.

Saturday's opposition, undefeated Clemson, will provide a big hurdle for the rejuvenated Red and Black. But the feeling that they are on their way is strong among the Bulldog players.

It is no secret that as Shea goes, so goes the Bulldog line, and his play Saturday made it crystal clear that the Bulldog alternate captain is definitely in the groove and ready to lead the up-front troops in their deadly forays in future battles.

Playing a solid offensive and defensive game throughout, Don was the king-pin during the tremendous last half of the Vandy game. On at least half a dozen plays, he was the leader of the Bulldog pack that struck down Commodores back of their line of scrimmage.

Postgame films show, also, that the rugged Irishman blasted a gaping hole in the Vandy line, through which Dick Young scrambled for the touchdown that tied the game 13-13 and gave Joe Comfort the chance to put the Bulldogs ahead by their one-point victory margin.

Shea came out of the game with bruises and scratches, but is expected to be in good shape for this week's inter-conference set-to with the Clemson Tigers.

SCRIMMAGE SCRAPS: Bulldogs sidelined by various ailments are senior tackle Jerry Griffin, senior end Matthew Arthur, who hasn't yet seen game duty this fall, junior tackle Pud Mosteller, injured in the Vandy game, and sophomore fullback Wilbur Lofton. All except Mosteller and Arthur are expected to see duty against Clemson Saturday.

Heads-up running by J. B. Davis drew praise from coach Wallace Butts. . . . Charlie Harris and Wendell Tarleton both impressed with strong, determined running after being tackled. . . . Sophomore right half Henry Dukes continued to throw jarring downfield blocks. He also showed that he will be able to spell Harris and Jimmy Orr at the right half slot. . . . Both senior quarterbacks, Jimmy Harper and Dick Young looked good on the passing attacks, and ends Cleve Clark and Lancair Roberts were hauling them in faultlessly, as was Jimmy Orr, the nations leading pass receiver, yardage-wise.

Anderson Sees Record In Germany Lift Meet

By JIMMY WALKER
Constitution Staff Writer

TOCCOA, Sept. 27—If he can dodge the cold, Paul Anderson believes he will break his three weightlifting records and maybe add a new one at the World Meet in Munich, Germany, next month.

The heavyweight lifting champion will meet six U.S. teammates Saturday morning to start a journey that will take him to both sides of the world, first to Munich for the world championships, then an exhibition tour of the Far East.

Training almost until time for the plane to leave, Paul said Tuesday, "I'm in good shape. I've been concentrating on heavy lifts for several weeks and I think I can beat the records if I don't get a cold. It's awful cold over there this time of year."

The Toccoa phenomenon won't estimate what weights he will try on the bar "until I work out over there a few times."

The team will arrive in Germany Monday, giving Paul two weeks in which to train. He lifts at 4 p.m., German time, Oct. 16, the day before his 23rd birthday.

He will be out to top his incredible 1146.2 lbs. total for the three Olympic lifts which is established in Moscow in June.

Paul looks for his keenest competition to come from a fellow teammate, Jim Bradford, who will also represent the United States in the heavyweight class.

Other teammates will include Charles Vinci, 123 lbs.; Pete George, 148 lbs.; Tommy Kono, 165 lbs.; Jim George, 181 lbs.; Clyde Emrick, 198 lbs.

The friendly, 22-year-old Toccoan did take a break once this week to drive to Clayton with Morris Payne and watch the filming of the "Great Locomotive Chase."

Smith's Ace Formula: One-Two-Three-Kick!

By Bert Prather

The boys at Adams Park golf course are still using those "precision" clubs off the tee.

Latest to join the big group of "I made a hole-in-one at Adams club" is Herman Smith.

Bert Prather

Herman struck his perfect blow off the 11th tee with a two iron. Here's the play-by-play on it: Hit green short of pin to right, took a big hop and kicked left, trickled into the cup.

The hole is a 202-yarder. Grady Tolbert and Bruce Stender, Smith's playing partners, were in on the show. Herman finished with 82, pretty good for a fellow who had been sent into the clouds with his first ace.

The "silent" player who won that hole-in-one contest at North Fulton which we mentioned last week, has been found. His name is Al Hoke. The reason Al didn't report it, according to his playing partners, Julian Phillips and Bob Senkbeil, was because he didn't think it a legitimate one.

The ladies of the North Fulton Women's Golf Association who were conducting the fund-raising ace contest on No. 11, sold three chances for 50 cents. Al missed his first two shots, but made it on his third try.

CHIP SHOTS: Howell Hollis, Georgia golf coach, plans to draft Bulldog quarterback Jimmy Harper of Thomasville for his golf team next spring. Jimmy won the ROTC title while in summer camp at Harlingen, Tex. . . . Hollis believes he will have one of the best freshmen teams in the conference with such yearlings as Frank Eldridge, new Jack Oliver Invitation champ; Davis Adams, 1954 State junior titlist from Macon, and C. L. Straughan Jr. of Atlanta on hand. . . . C. B. Jones, E. G. Clifford, Tony Phillips, E. W. Stewart and Gus Naumann shared blind bogey honors at Druid Hills by striking No. 74 on the head. . . . In the Druid Hills President's Cup handicap tournament, Dave Eden was the championship flight winner. Jack Hodgkins won in first flight, while LeRoy Rodgers prevailed in the third flight. When the second flight is completed, the flight winners will be matched to decide the overall winner.

Bill Barker, newly elected SEPGA veep from Georgia, says his Capital City members were more interested in finding out what his score was in the tournament than his new office. . . . Jack Fraser, who beat Gordon Clay for the Capital City Club crown, is rated one of the most improved tournament players at the club. . . . Boys around Adams Park course, where Big Gene Dahlbender Jr. does most of his playing are still talking about his smashing victory in the General Oglethorpe Invitation at Savannah. Gene's eight-under-par 280 led the second man by 21 strokes. And the field included such capable swingers as Tommy Barnes, Lester Kelly, Hobart Manley Jr. and Bob White. . . . Tracey Barnes, favorite in the Atlanta Seniors Golf Association championship being played at Bobby Jones golf course, had to withdraw because of illness. Play in the event has not reached the second round. W. L. Render, C. A. Barnes, Barry Ward and Ernest Harrison posted plus three to take East Lake dogfite honors Sunday. In the cat and dogfite, Mrs. Helene Vaughn, R. J. Rudder and Ms. and Mrs. T. B. Robertson picked up first prize with a minus nine. . . . The lake's bogey number (75) was a pushover. The winners were: D. E. Woodman, Gordon Morrall, H. C. Heerman, T. M. Moore, Harris Mills Sr., J. R. Hopkins, Gordon Bussey, Gerald Sawyer Sr., J. A. Dodd, B. J. Donahue and Gerald Nash.

It puts your business on Quality Street

LEAVE it to this Blue Chip GMC Runabout to spread glowing reports about you and your business.

There's an unmistakable air of prosperity in that smart design. But it's on the job especially that old-type trucks must look up to a Blue Chip GMC.

There's a 288 cubic inch V8 engine that delivers 155 horsepower on regular gas. It's an "over-square" design too—the stroke being less than the bore for extremely short piston travel.

There's Hydra-Matic Drive* that automatically and exactly fits the gear to the need—so smoothly, you forget about it all day long.

And while this shifting precision cuts fuel use, it also avoids shock-loading damage. Engine, drive line and rear end give you more years of repair-free service.

Finally, it's a Gibraltar of framing and axles for taking loads, and an easy-steering sweetheart for handling them.

So while folks are looking up to your truly modern equipment, savings are adding up every day you run it.

That's the sum of Blue Chip GMC advantages. Great looks—great service—great savings. Why not drop into our showroom tomorrow and talk it over?

Jackets' Sub Backs Poised for the Kill

Dodd: Top 2d Unit Important And Tech Owns a Dandy

By LARRY FOX

A fresh backfield may be worth its weight in touchdowns if it's any good and Georgia Tech's Bobby Dodd will match his No. 2 unit against 'most anybody.

"Several years back, at Tennessee during 1938, '39 and '40, General Neyland used platoon substitutions," Dodd recalled Tuesday afternoon, "The first unit had size, the second speed, and, if I remember correctly, the second unit outscored the first, nine touchdowns to one."

"We believe we're fortunate in having such a fine second set of backs. There is really not too much difference in ability between them and the first unit and that gives us a big advantage. For the other team must either continue to play its more tired men or substitute fresh players of less ability," Dodd added.

The idea came up during a discussion of Monday's promotion of George Volkert to the starting right halfback job. "Volkert has been playing very well for us all along," Dodd said, "While Jimmy Thompson has had a little trouble getting started. It's just possible that he'll operate better in a second unit situation, just as he did last year when he did so well."

Then he grinned and said, "That second backfield ought to be all right."

Personnel-wise, it sure ought. Toppy Vann has been the surprise of the season with his fine quarterbacking. Thompson, of course, has proved himself one of the most dangerous runners in the SEC, and it's quite possible that his apparent loss of efficiency is due to the enemy setting its defense to stop him. At left half, the Memphis freight, Stan Flowers is in operation. And at fullback it's Dick Gookin, one of the surest tacklers on the squad.

Flowers may get a chance to start Saturday against Southern Methodist. Paul Rotenberry has a bad knee and is all bunged up but Dodd has refused to write off the versatile Virginian. "It will be up to Paul to tell me if he's ready to play Saturday," Dodd said. Rotenberry was still in sweats Tuesday.

Gookin has come a long way, too. He was rated on a par with the rest of the fullbacks at the start of fall practice but was injured and lost his place. Now he's back near the top, the acknowledged defensive leader of all. With Dickie Mattison almost definitely out for SMU, Gookin will play about half the game behind Ken Owen. The Nashville junior saw a great deal of service last week against Florida and looked good.

Also at quarterback, an injury may put added pressure on the No. 2 man. Wade Mitchell is still taped and sore from side and thigh injuries but will be in the lineup at the whistle Saturday.

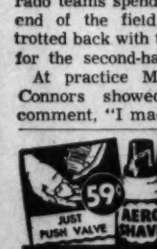

And a further note. If Rotenberry doesn't play and Flowers moves up, there'll still be a pretty swift fellow named Jimmy Noe ready to step in and keep that No. 2 backfield hopping.

THE CLIPBOARD: Fullback Charlie Bryant was promoted to the varsity Tuesday to make up for the injury to Mattison. . . . Johnny Thomason, the sophomore fullback prospect, will probably be held out this season as will soph halfback Joe DeLany. Both will be available in an emergency, however, making all the trips and dressing for games. . . . Don Denning, big sophomore tackle, was in sweats after suffering a slight shoulder injury in practice. . . . Jackets went through a spirited workout that closed with reserves who played little against Florida scrimmaging the B-team. . . . Burton Grant looked good quarterbacking the varsity. . . . Lester Jordan, personable publicity agent from SMU, checked in Tuesday with a brief case full of photos and data. He's the man behind that Academic All-America. . . . Bill Fulcher reports no trouble at all with his shoulder since he put on that new brace. His guard play has helped make that position one of Tech's toughest.

'A MISTAKE'

Lost Guard Comes Home At Colorado

BOULDER, Colo., Sept. 27 (AP)—During a football game Saturday, a 205-pound Colorado player, wearing a bright gold uniform with the huge numerals 64 fore and aft, got up from the bench and left the stadium.

Joe Connors

None of his teammates saw 23-year-old Joe Connors depart and Coach Dallas Ward said "I'm not going looking for him. He'll have to come back on his own."

Connors is a former Marine from Pittston, Pa., and played one season on the William and Mary grid squad in 1950.

A university spokesman said he understood that Connors was married here last Thursday and the newlyweds have an apartment. Where he doesn't know.

"He may have been disgruntled because he wasn't used much in the first half of the game," the spokesman said. Colorado beat Arizona 14-0 in its season opener.

During the third quarter Ward turned to the bench to send in Connors as a substitute at guard. Connors had vanished. Teammates are sure he was with them during the halftime rest period which Colorado teams spend in a shed at one end of the field. They think he trotted back with them to the bench for the second-half kickoff.

At practice Monday afternoon, Connors showed up with the comment, "I made a mistake."

MUSTANGS' SLOPPY OFFENSIVE GETS TUNE-UP WITH ROACH

By BILL RIVES
Sports Editor, Dallas Morning News

DALLAS, Sept. 27—SMU's most serious injury, after the 17-0 defeat at Notre Dame's hands, was "bruised feelings" as the Mustangs returned to work in preparation for their game with Georgia Tech this week.

Coach Woody Woodard let the players who saw most action at South Bend take it easy Monday, but the others scrimmaged. Assistant Coach Alex Hooks began drilling a team on Georgia Tech's defenses, while another aide, Jerry Robertson, taught the Yellow Jackets' offense to the same unit. This pseudo Tech team will be used for practice purposes against the varsity the rest of the week.

Chief concern of SMU supporters is whether they will bounce back from the loss to the Irish. The Mustangs seldom have looked sloppier than they did against Notre Dame. Seven times they lost the ball, four times on fumbles and three times on intercepted passes.

The lone bright spot was the play of quarterback John Roach. A 6-4 stringbean converted from halfback to quarterback last year, when he ran second-string to Duane Nutt, he was considered a question mark. The only game he had started was that against Notre Dame last year.

It was the final game of the season, and Roach opened as the Mustang quarterback because Nutt was lost through injury. The night before the game, Roach developed a high fever and was still weak the next day. But he started the game and played the first part of it, scoring one of SMU's two touchdowns (the Ponies lost, 26-14.)

Roach was definitely an unproven quantity when he went up against the Irish. But he played a good game, emerging as the day's leading rusher, with a 13-yard average and a total of 89 yards. He completed 10 of 24 passes for 98 more yards.

Against Georgia Tech, Coach Woodard will be fielding a team which will be big, but which was thoroughly outcharged by a smaller Notre Dame line.

BIG JOHN ROACH RUNS, TOO
He Leads Southern Methodist Attack

That group has the potential of giving SMU its best line in the school's history.

Now that apparently Roach has proven his mettle at quarterback, only one personnel problem remains. SMU has inexperienced ends. The need for improved end play was so acute, after three stars—Raymond Berry, Ed Bernet and Doyle Nix — were graduated, that Woodard moved a guard, Smitty Keller, to right end.

Keller played a strong defensive game, which is his forte, against Notre Dame. But SMU still needs better end play, particularly on offense. The Mustangs' chief threat to Georgia Tech, it would appear, lies in its ground game. In Roach, halfbacks John Marshall and Don McIlhenny and fullback Hal O'Brien, Woodard has a quartet of hard-running backs. If the SMU line can get them some daylight, they may be able to run against Tech.

PIT TO POST

'Think Guy' Reed Shortie King

By AL THOMY

Jim Reed is a young, short, track detective who "thinks" his way in and out of traffic until he has outrun the car hounds. Sometimes he encounters a real problem, such as the "Sosebee Caper," but by and large Jim is out front . . . by and large.

Al Thomy

The Peekskill, N.Y., native has yet to place at the Peach Bowl this season, but there are reasons—good ones—for this. First, it was the "Sosebee Caper."

Gober a stubborn man on the tracks, refused to let Reed pass while a North Carolinian, Bob Welborn, grabbing the outside, took over first place in the 200-lap race.

A peeved Reed locked bumpers with Sosebee and gave the Atlantan a merry-go-around maneuver off the track. This infuriated Sosebee, who hurried back to action, rammed Reed into the wall and then backed into him.

Thus did Reed lose quite a few points to runner-up Welborn, who went on to win the race.

Next time the Peach Bowl called, Reed answered and appeared in the victory groove until his car blew a tire on the 192nd lap.

But Jim isn't complaining. He leads the NASCAR short-track point standings with a total of 2,736, some 710 ahead of Welborn's 2,026. Following in order are: Bud Geiselman, Raleigh, N.C., 1,776; Lee Petty, Randleman, N.C., 1,398; Jim Paschal, High Point, N.C., 1,252; Paul Pettit, Danbury, Conn., 1,176.

The New Yorker, incidentally, is defending short track champion, so all of this is nothing new to him.

SHORT LAPS: Atlanta still produces the championship drivers. Frank Mundy has clinched the AAA stock crown, and Tim Flock has all but claimed NASCAR's championship . . . Tim set five new records in winning at Langhorne, Pa., last week. He averaged 77.8 m.p.h. in the 250-mile run . . . Late models return to the Peach Bowl on Friday night with the program—featuring Roscoe Thompson, Gober Sosebee, Chester Barron, Charlie Stone and company—throws the chauffeurs into a 50-lap duel . . . Barron, incidentally, finally brought home all four wheels last week. He finished fourth at Dallas Sunday, fourth in Anderson, S.C. Both races were taken by Cracker Jack Smith . . . Switch dept.: Jack Jackson has given up on the late models. "I'm going back to the modifieds," says Jack, and his first try at the mods will be the 100-lapper at Gainesville Sunday . . . Jim Wakefield wrecked his late model job at Dallas Sunday and immediately asked for another one . . . Slump dept.: Billy Myers, NASCAR national sportsman leader, hasn't won a race in over a month after sweeping to 47 victories during the season. Maybe he ought to try another stance—or car . . . Officers of the National Assn. for Stock Cars (NASCAR) are willing to meet and cooperate with the newly formed United States Auto Club, says NASCAR's Bill France. The USAC replaced AAA as a sanctioning body at Indianapolis. . . .

PLAIN NOTES—Trainer Kenny Howard revealed that soph halfback Bobby Hoppe will be ready to go against Kentucky though he won't enter the Florida fracas. Billy Kitchens saw only light duty Tuesday and is still marked doubtful for Saturday. . . . Dr. Ralph Draughon, Auburn president, made his first appearance at practice since suffering a heart attack in mid-August. His visit was limited to 20 minutes, but he seemed to enjoy every second. Dr. Draughon jokingly said, "I'm ready to go in for (Red) Phillips at end."

Warning to people who owe money

You've seen the claims: "Get out of debt! Restore your credit without a loan!" But look out—or you may be plunged even deeper in debt.

October Reader's Digest warns against today's fast-spreading "debt-pooling" racket . . . and tells how to make sure you deal only with honest loan agencies.

Tigers Look Sharp, Win Jordan Cheers

Subs Like Walsh, Adams Answer to Gators' Units

By MICKEY LOGUE
Constitution Sports Writer

AUBURN, Ala., Sept. 27—Florida football players can leave their algebra books at home Saturday as they won't be tested on their X's and Y's. It wouldn't hurt, though, to bone up on their wild life lore.

There's a rejuvenated Tiger awaiting the Gators' Cliff Hare Stadium visit.

"We were very well pleased with today's workout," Coach Ralph Jordan said Tuesday after the Plainsmen had galloped through a spirited drill. "This, so far, has been our finest week of practice."

Reserve fullback Jim Walsh brought words of approval from the Bengal boss. Running with the second team, Walsh made several healthy gains, including a 30-yard touchdown sprint.

The Tigers' No. 1 man at the line-plunging post was up to his old yard-consuming tricks. And Silent Joe Childress also was clearing the deck as a blocker.

Fullback was an example of the improved work done by regulars and reserves alike. This especially pleased Jordan since a two-platooning Gator team may confront Auburn.

The Tigers' two-team era was partially buried under Gainesville sod in last year's 19-13 loss to Florida and completely interred before the season closed. But two Gator teams still present a manpower problem. Reserves will have to be ready to spell starters, especially if another hot day appears.

How will the Tigers get along should all-America Childress or fleet Fob James be sidelined for breathers? "I wouldn't hesitate to use Walsh at fullback or (Johnny) Adams at left half. I'm confident they would do a good job. If it's hot again, they and a lot of others will have to do good work, because more substitution will be necessary."

King Retires Ace High Gun

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Trainer Max Hirsch of the King Ranch said today that the 4-year-old racer High Gun would be retired immediately to the stud.

High Gun, who was the 3-year-old champion of 1954, scored one of his greatest victories Saturday in the $106,700 Sysonby Stakes at Belmont Park.

"He is definitely through, and will be sent to the King Ranch farm in Kentucky," said Hirsch.

The trainer said High Gun had shown slight signs of suspensory trouble for some time, and although the colt had never been lame, "we don't want to take any chances." The suspensory is a strong ligament in the ankle.

why Ancient Age can say:

"IF YOU CAN FIND A BETTER BOURBON ...BUY IT!"

All we distill is Kentucky straight bourbon.

We know that bourbon of the finest quality requires choice grains. That's all we use. We know it calls for the greatest skill in distilling. The men who guide the making of Ancient Age are the most experienced in the industry. And it takes lots of time. That's why we wait six full years for careful aging to bring the quality ingredients to their peak of maturity.

And to safeguard the uniform quality of Ancient Age, we distill it at one place only . . . at the Ancient Age distillery in Frankfort, Kentucky . . . the heart of the bourbon country.

Nothing has been spared to make Ancient Age the greatest bourbon of them all. Try it tonight. After one taste, you'll understand why we can make the challenge: "If you can find a better bourbon . . . buy it!"

Marine Is Given Year In Death of Infant Son

A jury including Dougherty County's first woman member gave a 24-year-old Marine Corps sergeant a year in prison in the death of his 11-month-old son.

The jury found James R. Brawley guilty of involuntary manslaughter and fixed the penalty after nearly four hours of deliberation.

In an unsworn statement to the jury, Brawley said his son, James Jr., was fatally injured in a fall from the sink to floor of his trailer home June 19.

He told the jury he stood the boy on the covered sink preparatory to washing his face and he fell when his attention was diverted.

He repudiated an earlier statement that he threw the child to the floor while attempting to teach him to walk.

Mrs. Brawley was visiting a neighbor at the time of the fatal injury. She sat by her husband's side during the trial, weeping quietly at intervals.

Mrs. Nora B. Callahan served on the jury as the county's first trial jury member.

Georgians Hunt Industrial 'Gold'

BY BOB SIBLEY
Constitution Staff Writer

ROME, Ga., Sept. 27—Taking their cue from gold-hunting Georgians of a century ago, 200 present-day business leaders Tuesday began "mining" for a different gold—new industries.

The group, representing 31 northwest Georgia cities and towns, gathered at Shorter College to hear suggestions for developing markets, new products and obtaining financial support for their communities.

Gov. Marvin Griffin said products of new industries brought to communities are as valuable to the areas they settle as are the industries.

Declaring that "growth breeds growth," Griffin said, the additional tax revenues industries provide allow cities and counties to achieve all classes of public improvement.

The governor continued, "scanning the reports coming from towns and cities in Georgia recently, we find under way new sewerage systems, waterworks, public buildings, streets and road improvements, recreation centers, hospitals and schools.

"These improvement operations put people to work just as well as do industry," he said."

The governor said one of the best examples of industries stimulating commercial activities can be found in Rome. "In the last five years, new industries valued at more than $100,000,000 have been located on the Coosa River near here."

Ivan Allen Jr., president of the Ivan Allen Co. in Atlanta, told the group to "sell your community and don't give anything away. We don't want the kind of industry that has to be given everything."

Allen said sincerity of purpose and a willingness to invest community dollars along with industry's dollars are important factors. "Willingness of the community to invest its money goes a long way with prospective industry."

George Goodwin, vice president of the First National Bank of Atlanta, cited the field of secondary suppliers as a "real source of industrial gold."

L. C. Butcher, from the Georgia Dept. of Labor, reviewed the state-wide location of industries and the areas with the most available labor.

Claude Brooker, president of the Rome-Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the visiting business leaders.

Now! Zenith's crusade to lower the cost of hearing produces amazing new "50-X"

NEW FINEST-QUALITY ZENITH THREE-TRANSISTOR HEARING AID

for only $50.00!

See what the New "50-X" brings you at this unbelievably low price!

- A true, finest-quality, three-transistor precision instrument.
- Sensitive, fingertip volume control.
- Sturdy, noise-suppressing case.
- Simplified circuit operates at a cost of 10¢ a week, on a single tiny dry-cell battery, available everywhere.
- Price includes high-performance air-conduction earphone, cord and stock earmold.
- 10-DAY MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE
- ONE-YEAR WARRANTY
- 5-YEAR SERVICE PLAN.

Never before—even in the long history of Zenith's famed Crusade to Lower the Cost of Better Hearing—has any announcement offered so much of vital importance to those suffering a hearing problem. Once again, Zenith presents convincing new proof that top-quality aids for America's hard-of-hearing can be provided at reasonable cost.

The new "50-X" is a definitely finest-quality Zenith Hearing Aid—backed by Zenith's 36 years' experience and technical know-how—with Zenith's famed excellence of design, workmanship and materials. And yet, despite all it offers, this efficient new three-transistor Zenith "50-X" Hearing Aid does not sell for $250 to $300, as do many other makes, but at only a fraction of these prices.

The "50-X" at $50 complete, has been a Zenith goal ever since the miraculous discovery of tiny transistors as a substitute for vacuum tubes. Now, additional thousands of men, women and children who might never have met life on an equal footing with others, may truly enjoy the blessings of better hearing.

Important News for Users of Vacuum-Tube Hearing Aids: Don't wait another minute to get the outstanding clarity, convenience and operating economy of a genuine three-transistor Zenith. No more "B" batteries to buy . . . fewer interruptions in power . . . less battery changes! You'll be amazed at the difference! The new Zenith "50-X" operates for about 10¢ a week instead of one or two dollars a week for vacuum-tube instruments. Just imagine, these operational savings alone can pay the entire cost of the remarkable new Zenith "50-X" within a year!

But try the new Zenith "50-X" yourself. Enjoy the comfort, the realism, the marvelous natural "feel" of this genuine finest-quality Zenith aid to hearing. And remember, with every Zenith Hearing Aid you also get: (1) a 10-Day Money-Back Guarantee; (2) a Full-Year Warranty; (3) a Five-Year Service Plan. And you can use easy time payments if desired! Bone-conduction accessory and custom earmold available at moderate extra cost.

Subdivisions Must Build Own Curbs in DeKalb

DeKalb County will no longer do curbing work for subdivision developments, Commissioner Wheat Williams announced.

The commissioner said curbsetting is costing the county some $100,000 a year. For several years developers have paid for the curb and the county has set it at county expense.

Past grand juries have questioned the economic soundness of the practice, Williams said. He added that many builders have stated they know no reason why the county should bear the expense.

Curbing will henceforth be done by private contractors, subject to regulations laid down by the county.

Christian Knows How To Live, Die

QUESTION: A recent operation has revealed a cancer so far advanced that there is no possible cure. I am a Christian and I do so want to show it during these remaining months. W.S.

ANSWER: God is giving you a marvelous opportunity, and I believe you will rise to it. After all, everyone in this world must face the inevitability of death. Only the Christian knows how to live and how to die. You know that, for you, as a Christian, death will be but the opening up of something so wonderful that no human eye has ever seen anything like it, no human ear ever heard such glories, and in fact, the human imagination cannot conjure up what it is like. Because you have this thrilling hope in your own heart, tell other people about it and ask God to give you the presence and power to make it real to others. It can well be that your witness for Him will be the means of bringing many others to the same hope. Remember, too, the future you have with Christ is for all eternity. The last two chapters in the Bible tell something of what heaven is like. Christ came into this world to redeem us and and to enable us to live for Him. He also came to enable us to die with the assurance in our hearts that we shall be with Him forever.

Public Tour of Finished Buford Dam Slated

Citizens of northeast Georgia have been invited to tour the Buford Dam area Oct. 12 as guests of the Upper Chattahoochee Development Assn.

The association will hold its annual meeting at the dam at 4 p.m.

A program of band music and an address by Phil Landrum, congressman from the 9th District, are scheduled.

A dinner for UCDA members will follow the speech. Membership in the association is open to citizens of Hall, Gwinnett, White, Lumpkin, Forsyth, Dawson, Habersham, Stephens, DeKalb and Fulton counties.

Robert M. Holder of Atlanta, vice president of the association, pointed out that while the lake actually will not go into Habersham, Stephens, DeKalb and Fulton, citizens of those counties are eligible to join the association because the four-lane highway to Gainesville, which will run through the four counties, is a part of the same general project as is the dam.

The dam is complete now, Holder said, and construction of the powerhouse is expected to be finished by spring of 1957. The gates of the dam will be closed Feb. 1, 1956, and with normal rainfall, the lake will be full in the spring of 1957, he said.

IkeCheerful,Comfortable; Rests Out of Oxygen Tent

again tonight in the oxygen tent as a routine rest measure."

At the same time, it was disclosed that Soviet Marshal Georgi Zhukov wired the President that he only recently had learned of Eisenhower's illness "and received this news with the deepest feelings of sorrow."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Eisenhower, speaking through press secretary James C. Hagerty, voiced her deep gratitude and that of her family to those "who have prayed and are praying for the recovery of the President." She said these prayers "have helped the President" and sustained her.

A 3:45 p.m. MST (5:45 p.m. EST) bulletin said Eisenhower's progress was satisfactory "throughout the day." It disclosed he spent all but four hours outside his oxygen tent.

He rested under the tent for two hours in the morning and slept under it for two hours in the afternoon.

Mrs. Eisenhower joined him at lunch when he ate a small slice of steak, a baked potato, string beans, a fruit cocktail and a glass of milk. Their son, Maj. John Eisenhower, visited with them at the time.

While the next 10 days to two weeks will remain a critical period, his progress is so satisfactory that Maj. Eisenhower plans to fly back tomorrow morning to his Army duties at Ft. Belvoir, Va.

Although the President was alert and cheerful, no effort was made to discuss any kind of official business with him. His staff has not told him that discussions are under way in Washington about the constitutional problem of whether some of his necessary official functions might be transferred to or assumed by Vice President Nixon.

The President has been told by his doctors of the seriousness of his ailment and that the road to recovery will be a long one. But he has not been asked to relate these factors to the enormous load of work normally piled upon any President.

The President has not read a newspaper or listened to a radio broadcast. No one has talked to him about the widespread speculation over the future scope of his activities or whether he will desire or be able to seek re-election in in 1956.

Hagerty agreed there was a "fortunate lull" in governmental business normally requiring at least routine presidential action. He said if this "lull" could continue for another two weeks, it might not be necessary for the vice president or other officials to take on jobs normally discharged by the President.

There obviously is a disposition among White House officials to hope that the expected two-week interval between complete non-activity and a limited return to duty can be bridged without the delegation of presidential authority even temporarily.

The mood of White House officials brightened with each new medical bulletin of continuing progress in the President's fight for life and toward full recovery.

But his top aides remained aware of the warning from Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, regarded as one of the top heart specialists of the country. Dr. White flew back to Boston yesterday after spending parts of two days at the President's bedside. While the President looked well and probably felt well, Dr. White said that he remained "quite sick," and absolute quiet and rest was ordered for at least two weeks.

"Every day counts in his favor, the first week being the most important," Dr. White said.

operations in the capital. He also conferred with Rowland W. Hughes, director of the Budget Bureau, Leonard W. Hall, national Republican chairman, and Defense Department officials.

Nixon declined all comment on his conferences beyong saying they concerned "government affairs." The Secret Service increased its guard detail around the vice president, including an all-night vigil of two agents outside the Nixon house.

W. E. Baughman, chief of the Secret Service, said the added agents was "ordinary routine, mainly because of the attention now focused on the vice president and the crowds around him."

The Republican national chairman again brushed aside a question of whether Eisenhower will run for a second term. "I'm not speculating at all," he said, and added "it was not appropriate" while the President was ill.

He said he talked with Nixon about speaking engagements the vice president must cancel. He asserted they did not go into the political problems of 1956, a presidential election year. "Naturally, the vice president wants to stay around Washington," he said, adding that he had agreed to find suitable substitutes for scheduled speeches.

He reiterated that "we're going to go out and organize every precinct worker" toward a "stronger party" in 1956. He said the Republican national headquarters would be expanded with additional personnel but this was as planned earlier and not because of the present situation.

Myrt Steals Home With TV $32,000

the show. She decided to call it a day on the eve of the World Series after winning almost three times the record amount each New York Giant got for the 1954 series.

Her family and many friends from Buford, including city manager J. C. Dover, J. L. Drake, city commissioner, and Mrs. Power's sons, were in the audience.

It was her sons who had convinced her to stop because of high income taxes. People all over the country, including former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey had advised her to take the $32,000 for the same reason. "Mr. Dempsey," she told the audience, "really knows something about taxes."

She said some of the money would go to fix up her house in Buford. "I'll put the rest in the bank to leave something to my children."

In Buford, the town's 4,000 residents agreed with its best-known citizen that the time to quit was "now."

"I'm glad she took the $32,000," said Mrs. J. C. Dover, wife of Buford's city manager. "I feel most of the people in Buford are glad she took it."

Townspeople are planning a big homecoming celebration for Miss Myrt when she returns to Buford after the World Series. They give the "professional baby sitter" credit for "putting Buford on the map."

Mrs. Power's older sister, 73-year-old Gertrude Bragdon, said she "thought all the time she would go for the $64,000. I believe she was influenced by her children."

BROILED chuck steak "sirloin tender"!

Enjoy tender steaks and roasts more often from less expensive but equally nutritious cuts of meat. Adolph's makes all meat tender and reduces cooking time as much as 30%.
By broiling meat you retain more of the important nutrients and vitamins lost in braising or boiling. With Adolph's you can broil or oven roast many cuts that formerly had to be cooked the slow, old-fashioned way.
Your grocer has Adolph's new meat recipe cards — THEY'RE FREE!

TRY THIS BROILED CHUCK STEAK DINNER TONIGHT
Sprinkle ADOLPH'S on both sides of a 2 lb. chuck steak 2" thick. Pierce generously (both sides) with sharp fork. Let stand at room temperature 1 hr. or refrigerate overnight. Broil 4" from heat to desired doneness. Turn only once.
Don't be surprised if a kiss is your reward!

Adolph's, seasoned and non-seasoned, is available at grocers everywhere.

Be sure it's tender - use Adolph's!

Roswell Road Tract Is Sold

Haas & Dodd, Atlanta realty and development firm, revealed Tuesday that it purchased for about $300,000 a 500-acre tract of land on Roswell road just beyond Sandy Springs from Hughes Spalding.

The realty firm said it had no immediate plans for development of the property.

The tract has frontages totaling almost four miles along Roswell, Glenridge, Mabry and Dalrymple roads, and Spalding drive, some two and one-half miles from the Sandy Springs business center.

Negotiations were handled by D. O. Martin of Lamb Realty Co.

Cook Cites Mixed-Class Ban in Teacher Oath

Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook told Decatur Civitans Tuesday that the "right to teach in public schools is state created and is conditioned on several requirements." Among them, he said, is the loyalty oath, which forbids teaching to mixed classes.

Obviously referring to his proposal to ban members of the NAACP from public school teaching, Cook declared:

"Certainly, I think it is proper for the state to make certain that no teacher contributes a portion of his or her salary as dues to any organization which, in turn, uses that money to file suits which disrupt or destroy our segregated public school system."

The mixed team of four again proved to be the most popular event at the national championships in Chicago. The winning team was composed of Mrs. Leonard Goldstein, Leland Ferer, and Harry Harkavy of Miami Beach and Alvin Roth and Mrs. Terry Michaels of Washington.

Mr. Roth gained a match for his team by selecting the winning line of play to bring in a grand slam contract in spades; whereas his adversary chose another method of play and went down to defeat.

The North hand is a shade too strong for an opening bid of one no trump. The top limit for such a call is 18 points. This hand in addition to the 18 points contains two tens and a second four-card suit. After North's jump raise South was convinced that there was at least a small slam, but decided to probe further on the chance that he might find more precious ore. He showed the ace of clubs and North decided to reciprocate by announcing the diamond ace. South's four-heart bid was a feature showing call and when North went so far as to show the king of clubs, South decided the grand slam was a reasonable gamble.

At both tables West opened the jack of clubs, and trumps were extracted without difficulty. At one table declarer decided to cash the ace and king of diamonds and when the queen failed to drop he held forth the hope that the jack of hearts would drop; or if that failed to come off that the player with the queen of diamonds also held the four hearts so that he would be squeezed into submission. But West held on to the diamond queen and East to the heart jack and the contract failed.

Mr. Roth gave himself a slightly better chance. He first ran the hearts and when the jack failed to drop he had still remaining the 50-50 chance of the diamond finesse which our mathematical department has advised us is a slightly superior percentage play.

Cause of Migraine Still Debatable

There is no agreement on the cause of migraine headache. Pain stems from dilatation of the blood vessels but what makes these structures dilate? Is it allergy, nervousness, or part of the migrainous personality?

Migraine is said to affect up to 10 per cent of the population and three out of four victims are women.

There is a hereditary tendency; 65 per cent of all victims are bothered in the same way as their parents.

People with a migrainous personality may be highly intelligent and shy; they are perfectionists and react poorly to stress when they fail to accomplish a goal. Depression and fatigue occur and the head begins to pound.

Nervous stimulation resulting from severe mental strain causes the arteries of the brain to go into spasm initially, followed by marked dilatation. During the spasm stage there may be numbness and tingling of a hand or foot and spots before the eyes. This is succeeded by the second stage in which one side of the head throbs.

In some women, hormones are thought to play a dominant role, particularly when headache precedes the menstrual period or the attacks cease during pregnancy or after the menopause. In others, allergy enters the picture because the bout follows contact with something the individual has eaten.

In the past decade, many remedies have been suggested but the majority of victims still get most relief by taking aspirin and going to bed in a dark room. If this fails, a more scientific approach is required. During the early stage, for example, when the vessels are constricted, the attack may be aborted with a vasodilating drug such as histamine or nicotinic acid.

On the other hand, these remedies are useless during the second phase of dilatation. Here, a drug that constricts the arteries is needed. Ergotamine in best for this purpose, especially when combined with caffeine. This mixture is available in tablets, suppositories, and ampules for hypodermic injections.

But ergotamine is a derivative of ergot and should not be used indiscriminately. It is not feasible during pregnancy or when the migraine sufferer has high blood pressure, poor circulation, or heart or kidney disease. Furthermore, after long time use of these products, the intervals between attacks become shorter.

A Rhyme a Day

"There is no better therapy than a cheerful attitude and the cultivated belief that all of life is worth while." —Ollie Reeves' quote.

We need but little, here below . . . for we can't take it when we go . . . but that in nowise will prevent . . . our watching how the money's spent . . . and building for the future when . . . we should observe how other men . . . who owned the factories and mills . . . and farms have drawn and signed their wills . . . have gone and left things much the same . . . as they were, long before they came.

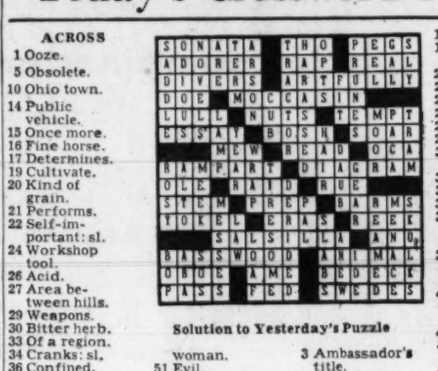

It is a melancholy thought . . . that everything a man has bought . . . and paid for with his years of toil . . . like him, "returneth to the soil" . . . that from the moment of his birth . . . he's just a tenant on this earth . . . and what he owns is nothing more . . . than other men have owned before.

That years are short and, at the best . . . he's but a temporary guest . . . who passes on and leaves the sea . . . the earth and sky to you and me . . . and I think that's a good excuse . . . for that old saying, "what's the use?"

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Hypnosis Shows Power of Mind

George and Philip, our two older children, brought up some more points about hypnosis.

"Dad, the textbooks say a person under hypnosis will not commit murder," Philip began, "but I doubt the truth of that statement.

"Oh, I'll admit if I hypnotized a patient and told him to shoot a human being, he might not pull the trigger.

"But suppose I told him that a certain human being was a grizzly bear, approaching him or some other member of his family, to devour him.

"Then if I gave the hypnotized subject a loaded revolver, I think he would readily shoot at this supposed bear, for the act of firing at a bear would not violate his previous taboo against murder."

To which I replied that I thought it was quite possible, in the manner Philip described, to delude the hypnotized patient and perhaps get him to kill a human being unwittingly.

"Yes, Dad," George began, "I think if you can change a person's attitude under hypnosis, he might do as Philip suggested.

"For example, I hypnotized a girl who was a non-drinker, and then gave her a glass of ordinary drinking water, but I told her it was whisky.

"She refused to drink it. So I asked her if she liked Coke, and she said she did.

"Then I poured her a fresh glass of plain water and handed it to her as a Coke. She drank it delightedly.

"But I reminded her to be careful, for she might burp pretty soon and she knew what that would do to her nose.

"Sure enough, she soon screwed up her face in the exact manner of a person who gets that carbonic acid burn in the top of the nose after drinking carbonated beverages.

"Now, Dad, if she would take my word that water was Coke, and if she would go through even the physiological process of burning nasal sensation, why wouldn't she believe Philip if he told her a human being was a grizzly bear?"

From my professional experience with hypnosis, I think the Communists could have administered their brainwashing of our imprisoned Americans much faster by hypnosis.

For you cannot only change a person's attitudes more quickly under hypnosis, but you can then implant suggestions that will later operate AFTER the patient is restored to a normal waking state.

We call these post-hypnotic suggestions, since they are acted upon long afterwards.

Some drinkers and dope addicts have thus been hypnotized and told they would feel nauseated at the thought of taking their usual shot of whisky or morphine after they were awakened. Later, they felt the same type of nausea, apparently, that we medics can produce by giving them drugs.

It's important for you to know how BUFFERIN®

acts twice as fast as aspirin to relieve your pain

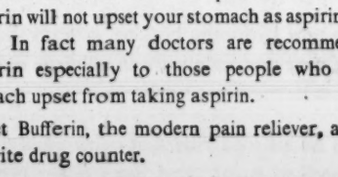

1. Pain-relieving ingredients must get into the blood stream

For years, medical science has known that pain-relieving agents in tablet form must get into the blood stream in order to give relief.

That's one of the reasons why, in many cases of very severe pain, doctors inject pain-relieving ingredients directly into the body so that they get into the blood stream faster.

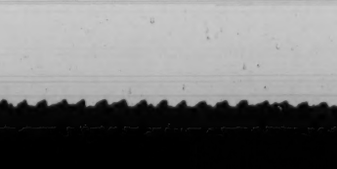

So, naturally, the faster a pain-relieving agent that you swallow can get out of the stomach and into the blood stream, the faster it can go to work. Bufferin assures this faster action!

2. How does Bufferin act twice as fast as aspirin to relieve your pain?

The reason the pain-relieving ingredient in Bufferin is able to enter the blood stream far more quickly than aspirin, is simple. Bufferin is a special formula which combines aspirin with two special antacid ingredients.

These extra ingredients combat the acidity which so often follows the taking of straight aspirin. They speed the pain-relieving ingredient in Bufferin into the blood stream twice as fast. That's why Bufferin acts twice as fast as straight aspirin to relieve your pain . . . and does not upset your stomach.

3. Medically Proved

Bufferin's speedy absorption was studied for four years before a tablet was sold. Seven more years of research added such extra proof of speed as this:

In a well-known clinic one group took aspirin, another took Bufferin. The Bufferin group had more pain-relieving ingredient in the blood stream in ten minutes than the aspirin takers had in twenty minutes. Bufferin acts fast to relieve your pain. And, because Bufferin contains antacid ingredients, it won't upset your stomach, as aspirin often does.

4. Should I consult my doctor before taking Bufferin?

Your doctor knows about Bufferin. He knows that it has passed the same rigid tests that he demands of medicines used in his own practice. He knows Bufferin will not upset your stomach as aspirin often does. In fact many doctors are recommending Bufferin especially to those people who suffer stomach upset from taking aspirin.

Get Bufferin, the modern pain reliever, at your favorite drug counter.

CATCHING COLD? TAKE BUFFERIN!
Acts twice as fast as aspirin to relieve cold miseries.

A Product of Bristol-Myers

If you suffer from pain of Arthritis or Rheumatism, ask your physician about Bufferin

Desmond, Small Business Chief Here, Gets AF Post

T. K. Desmond, regional director of the Small Business Administration here, has resigned to accept appointment as a budget officer with Headquarters, USAF, in Washington.

A colonel in the Army Reserve, Desmond served in World War II and the Korean War.

Desmond, a native of Alexandria, Va., said personal reasons necessitated his accepting the post in Washington.

Temporarily in charge of the Atlanta office, located in Peachtree Seventh Building, will be Robert E. McAfee, Jonesboro, who has served as Desmond's deputy.

Desmond praised the cooperation his office has received. He specifically cited the "splendid cooperation from all local banks." He said 84 per cent of the small business loans have been particpated in by these banks.

He added that the rate of foreclosures in the region is very low, with one of the best records in the country in this connection.

Convict Artist's Picture of Christ To Be Shown in Sunday Magazine

BEEF SHOOT IN GEORGIA—The first beef shoot in Georgia in recent times was held at Hiawassee at the Georgia Mountain Fair. Mountain men and flat-landers unlimbered their old muzzle-loading rifles and started banging away.

CONVICT PAINTS CHRIST SMILING—A life-term convict in the Florida State Prison had a dream in which Christ smiled at him. Since then, the prisoner has painted image after image of our Saviour smiling. This touching article is illustrated with a color reproduction of one painting and tells of Christians over the world who write to him. Bishop Arthur J. Moore and Dr. Charles L. Allen add their inspiring comments.

LEGS—A SURE-FIRE HIT—Don't be afraid that TV is leaving Hollywood without a leg to stand on. Here are sparkling photographs of movie beauties with the prettiest legs you ever saw.

Buys Personal Locomotive

An Atlanta man who "always wanted a locomotive" finally has ought one.

Horace G. Poss bought an 18-ton steam engine from the Pullman Co. and set it up on tracks beside his steel fabricating company at 1085 Howell Mill Rd., NW.

Poss, who has made railroading a hobby for more than 40 years, outbid six other amateur railroaders to buy the engine. He plans to paint it green and let inquisitive children inspect it.

"Steam locomotives are rapidly becoming a thing of the past," Poss said. "In a few more years, there won't be a kid in America who knows what a steam locomotive looks like."

The moment you see it you'll know you're seeing NEWS!

It's the clear crisp note of modern car design you'll be seeing on Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto, Chrysler and Imperial . . . the all-new cars of THE FORWARD LOOK for 1956. Only on these will THE FLIGHT-SWEEP be!

It is clearly and beautifully the shape of things to come. Like a jet plane or a big speed boat or racing car, the silhouette of these graceful cars sweeps in one fast rush from out-reaching nose back along the sides to the high-spirited, upswept tail.

The mass of the car hugs close to the road. The whole look of the car says motion . . . "Let's go!" Once you spot it, there's no mistaking it. And no mistaking the fact that here's the right note in design for today and for tomorrow, too.

And behind this new design is more good news you'll not want to miss. For here are the newest new cars of all!

Here's news in PUSHBUTTON POWERFLITE. Put your finger on a button on the dash at your left and you're in the driving range you want!

Here's news in power . . . still greater performance, still greater economy, from the most advanced engine designs in any cars today!

Here's news in new hydraulic braking systems that bring stopping ease and safety to an all-time new high.

Here's news in an all-road ride that other cars are still on the search to equal. And news in the full-time Safety-Touch Power Steering that really gives the control and ease and certainty that part-time versions reach for . . . and miss!

Here's real news in safety for you, too. New Life-Guard door latches that hold faster under stress than any have ever done before. New Safety Seat Belts if you wish them. Rigidity and stamina of body work to surpass even Chrysler Corporation's known high standards.

Watch for THE FLIGHT-SWEEP. Watch for these cars at your dealer's. Soon comes the second year of THE FORWARD LOOK, Chrysler Corporation's challenge that has already won the hearts of well over a million families in 1955, against the toughest competition this industry has yet seen.

Rehabilitation Hub Here For Disabled Is Projected

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Establishment of a comprehensive rehabilitation center for disabled persons in the Atlanta area was termed a "vital need" here Tuesday night—and machinery for launching such a project was set in motion.

READIES SOUVENIRS
Shirley Sheridan

Dr. Donald A. Covalt of Bellevue Rehabilitation Center in New York City and Dr. Robert L. Bennett, medical director of the Warm Springs Foundation, told some 60 health and vicie leaders Atlanta and Georgia urgently need a center for the rehabilitation of the physically disabled.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce health committee, which has made establishment of a rehabilitation center here its "No. 1 project," sponsored the meeting at the Capital City Club.

GO OUT OF STATE

Harry W. Indell, chairman of the committee, said Georgia now spends $80,000 to $100,000 a year to send severely disabled citizens out of the state for rehabilitation services.

The group voted to appoint a steering committee, which in turn will name a board of trustees to work for an Atlanta center.

Dr. Harriet Gillette of Atlanta proposed that the board of trustees formulate medical policies, select a site for the center and work out a program. Her motion was unanimously adopted.

Dr. R. C. Williams, director of the Division of Hospital Services, Georgia Department of Public Health, said federal funds are available on a matching basis for construction and equipment of rehabilitation centers. He said about $240,000 in federal funds has been allocated to Georgia for constructing rehabilitation facilities through June 30, 1956.

Dr. Covalt said a center must provide an integrated program of medical, psychiatric, psychological, social and vocational services. Physical, occupational and speech therapy must be included, he emphasized.

NEED INCREASING

He said the need for rehabilitation services is increasing because the population is aging and "more and more people are suffering from chronic diseases and disability."

Dr. Bennett said officials of the Warm Springs Foundation hope the demand for care of polio will lessen as use of the Salk vaccine increases. He said they plan to develop a complete rehabilitation center there for many types of disabled patients.

"But we would not be in competition with an Atlanta rehabilitation center," Dr. Bennett stressed. "There are more patients in this area than a center in Warm Springs and another in Atlanta could handle."

Dr. Hugh Wood, dean of the Emory University Medical School, and Dr. T. F. Sellers, director of the State Health Department, were among those who pledged cooperation in establishing a center here.

3,000 Fair Exhibits To Open Today

By BOB WILLIMON

Mild bedlam reigned at Lakewood late Tuesday as the last of 3,000 exhibitors rushed their wares into position for the 10:30 a.m. Wednesday opening of the 41st annual Southeastern Fair.

Brightly painted combines, tractors and other farm machinery crowded roads as they sought out display areas.

The rap of carpenter hammers blended with the solid thud of sledge hammers as jerry-built stands and booths took shape on the garish tent-filled midway.

Tempers generally seemed even as the strained, last minute preparations reached climactic proportions. Most annoying situations were cleared up almost as quickly as they developed.

Like when operators of tractor and lift equipment couldn't park their machines in an assigned area because of parked automobiles. The lift equipment was put to good use as the autos were gently raised and deposited elsewhere.

The fair parade will be held Thursday, starting at 7:30 p.m. from Peachtree and Baker streets, and will move through the downtown area. The colorful parade is one of the fair's highlights.

Maurice Coleman, public relations director of the fair, said some 350,000 persons are expected to witness the spectacle this year.

Coleman, asked if "gambling" concessions had been ruled out this year, said there will be only "games of skill." Bingo, wheels of chance and similar non-skill games will not be permitted to operate, he said.

A new ride attraction is the "Round-up," a contraption similar to the centrifugal machine used to test aviators.

Also available to jiggle squealing customers will be the "Twister," called the "human egg-beater." All rides will be certified for safety, Coleman said.

On hand to aid the crowd will be some 40 employes known as the "courteous patrol." Shuttle buses will relay motorists from lake area parking spots to the midway. Police, fire and ambulance facilities will be available on a full-time basis.

School children will be admitted free on three days. Negro children will lead off Wednesday; white children from throughout the state on Friday, and Atlanta and Fulton County children on the following Friday.

Although tin is softer than copper, the addition of a little tin to copper creates bronze which is harder than either metal.

Top Speakers Set for U.S. Welfare Meet

Raymond Hilliard of Chicago, Cook County, Illinois, welfare director, will be among the speakers at the Southeast regional meeting of the American Public Welfare Association Wednesday through Friday at the Biltmore Hotel.

Hilliard will speak Thursday on "A Bill of Rights for Older People."

Charles I. Schottland, commissioner of Social Security and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, is scheduled to address the opening session at 10 a.m. Wednesday. Judge Alan Kemper, director of the Georgia Department of Public Welfare, will welcome delegates.

About 1,000 welfare workers and lay persons are expected to attend the conference. Subjects to be discussed include agency staffing and training, community teamwork, health and welfare agency teamwork, mental health, medical care and case records.

Wellborn Ellis, administrator of the Fulton County Welfare Department, said this will be the first time the national organization ever has held its regional meeting in Georgia. Phil Cawthon, deputy director of the State Department of Public Welfare, will serve as conference chairman.

Ralph McGill, editor of The Constituion, and Celestine Sibley, Constitution columnist, will be among the speakers.

Methodists Ask Expansion Fund

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Sept. 27. (AP)—Georgia's 400,000 Methodists will be asked to contribute an extra $1 each again next spring to help underwrite continued expansion of their church.

A fourth year of the program was decided upon Tuesday at the annual Atlanta area planning session which is in progress at Epworth-by the-Sea.

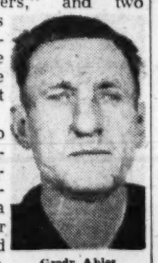

Bishop Arthur J. Moore explained the money is used to supplement regular contributions and is appropriated mainly to Methodist colleges and to new churches.

City Friendship Fund

City employes Tuesday organized the Atlanta City Employes Friendship Fund, Inc., and asked Mayor Hartsfield to take necessary steps to incorporate it for income tax exemption purposes. The organization, headed by Ray Nixon, will sponsor monthly deductions from pay of city employes for charitable contributions.

Dean of Safe Artists Flees In Oglethorpe

Grady Ables, 52, identified by Atlanta police as "dean of Georgia safe crackers," and two other prisoners escaped Tuesday from the Oglethorpe County jail at Lexington.

Grady Ables

In addition to Ables, the prisoners were listed as J. C. Damon, held on a misdemeanor charge, and Douglas Huff, Negro, convicted slayer.

Oglethorpe Sheriff W. T. Howard said the trio was freed by someone who broke the lock on the jail door. Sheriff Howard said the jail was checked at 2 a.m. and the break was discovered at breakfast.

Board of Correction officials said Ables, who had a four-page police record, recently was sentenced to 20 years each on three counts of burglary in Wayne County, the sentences to run concurrently.

Pay-for-Self Incinerator Proposal of Sanitary Board

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Erection of a self-liquidating, $1,250,000 incinerator at the Waterworks Department's River pumping station was proposed Tuesday at a meeting of the aldermanic board's sanitary and sewer committee.

Stafford Graydon, sanitary engineer, said the plant could produce steam to save an $80,000 annual fuel bill for pumping water at the plant and that in addition, reclaimed tin cans would produce another $65,000 annually.

Ald. James E. Jackson, member of the committee and chairman of the aldermanic board's water committee, immediately supported the proposal, saying the city could retire the cost of the plant from fuel savings and actually make money on the operation.

Committeemen also agreed to investigate the feasibility of getting engineering experts to pass on a proposal to permit wholesale installation of garbage disposal units in Atlanta. Representatives of disposal manufacturers appeared before the committee asking that a present requirement for a three-inch waste pipe for such installations be reduced to two inches, that multiple installations be allowed and that installations be permitted in commercial zones except for super-markets.

RECORDS BOUGHT IN MADRID ARE PROUD POSSESSIONS OF ATLANTA GIRL
Miss Caroline Reinero Acquired Taste for Spanish Music

Room and Board for $1 a Week At 'Picture Post Card' University

By BETTY CARROLLTON

The method DOES make a difference, regardless of the goal.

When the romance of languages lured an Atlanta girl to Spain for a year's study at the University of Madrid, she found the differences in teaching a chief obstacle.

Miss Caroline Reinero, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred P. Reinero, said the first month of her stay in Madrid was devoted mostly to "getting used to" the Spanish methods of teaching.

"There was practically no outside work for students," she explained. "It was all classroom lectures and went quite slowly. It was more than a month before I felt I was getting anywhere."

AGNES SCOTT GRAD

Caroline, a graduate of Agnes Scott College where she majored in Spanish, found the Madrid campus "one of the loveliest in the world."

"All of the buildings have been constructed since their civil war," she commented. "They are of contemporary design, built of red brick with white blinds, and each school has its own garden. Located on the edge of town, the university looks out toward the mountains, giving a real picture post card view."

The few dormitories on the campus are state supported for economy-minded students.

"It's amazing what they get," Caroline said, "Room and board is only $1 a week—including maid service."

PRIVATE HOME

Caroline and another American student shared the home of a Spanish family during their stay in Madrid. Caroline and the two daughters in the family became very close friends and hope to maintain contact with each other throughout the years.

The Spaniards were "very interested in all phases of American life and asked endless questions concerning Caroline's homeland.

"Everyone had very definite impressions of America, especially New York. Of course, their opinions have been formed sort of through rose-colored glasses, the movies and books. Nearly everyone has read 'Gone With The Wind.'"

The Spaniards' second-hand impressions of America were etched on Caroline's mind, giving her a new concept of her native land.

"MORE AWARE"

"I think talking with them made me more aware of my own country," she said. "They all think America is a pretty wonderful place."

Mealtime in the Spanish home took a little "getting used to."

"I felt a little silly eating dinner at 10:30 p.m.," Caroline admitted. "Everyone sleeps late and our 9:30 classes at the university seemed much earlier because there were so few students. The Spaniards arranged their schedules so their classes did not begin until 11.

"I thought sleeping late and eating late was a lark at first. Then I decided it was terrible, but finally it fitted in very well. Now I sometimes miss that sort of schedule."

Caroline enjoyed the exciting bull fights she saw in Spain—some "very good ones," and a few "pretty horrible" ones where the matador was "a little messy killing the bull."

Before she arrived in Madrid to begin her studies, Caroline traveled in Norway, Sweden and Denmark. She spent her Christmas holidays visiting friends in Austria, where the highlight of her trip was learning to ski.

"Christmas in Austria was one you would dream about," she said. "It was a typical small-town Christmas. There were real candles on the tree and on New Year's Eve the chimney-sweep came around to all the homes."

Caroline is now busily engaged in last-minute preparations for two years in residence at Bryn Mawr as the result of a fellowship she was awarded. After receiving her doctorate in romance languages, she hopes to teach, preferably in California.

To Meet Tuesday

Miss Josie Slocumb, supervisor of elementary education in Atlanta public schools, will discuss "Answers to Questions About Reading," at a meeting of the Morningside PTA study group.

The meeting will be held on Tuesday at 10 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Jack Mazier, 1275 Pasadena Ave., NE.

Decorated 'After 5' Sweaters Included in Smart Wardrobes

I've seen such beautiful white alencon lace-encrusted white cashmeres—the height of luxury.

I also like a gay color like red or pretty deep blue cashmere with self colored beads and embroidery or, if you prefer, a pastel color. Add pearl embroidery to match, as much or as little as you wish.

Fur collared cashmeres are so comfortable too, fox or white mink preferred and although not so new I think they're still very smart.

Or you may choose a colorful orlon, elaborate with matching beads, that won't hurt your budget.

These decorated sweaters are sometimes lined to make them look and feel more like real jackets.

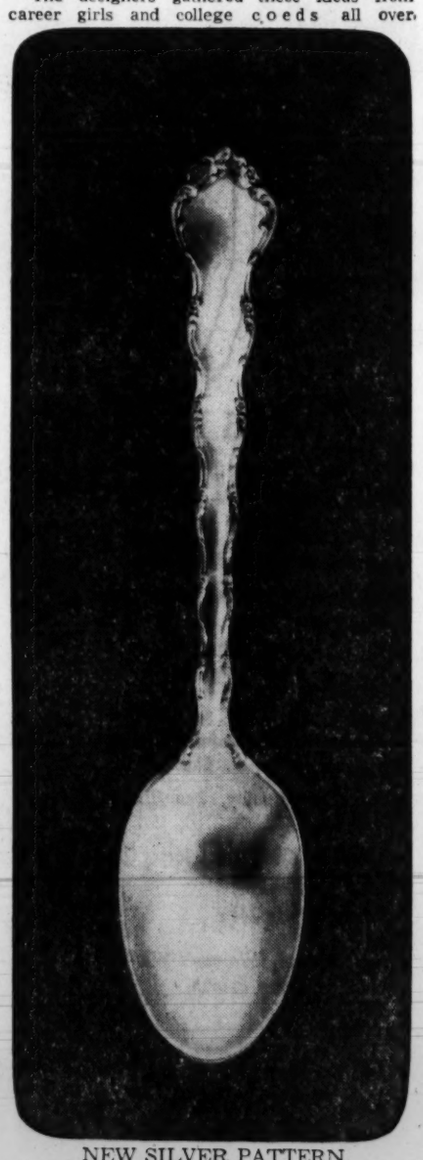

Silver Pattern 'for Scarlett O'Hara' Unveiled at New Art Galleries

By JEANNE HIGGINS

Tara stepped out of its movie role Tuesday night for a second premier in Atlanta—this time as a pattern of silver to suit the Southern woman.

And Southern women have their own sterling ideas.

The designers gathered these ideas from career girls and college coeds all over the South. They fashioned them into a pattern that, according to Mr. Walter C. Hill, chairman of the board of trustees for the Atlanta Art Assn., is a perfect example of the modern trend of art being brought into our daily living.

NEW SILVER PATTERN
Designed for the South

The new galleries of the Atlanta Art Assn. was the setting for the impressive world premier of the pattern already scheduled to be shown soon at six other art museums in the South.

Tara was shown at a special exhibition which was attended by deans of the colleges through which the survey was made, newspaper, television and radio editors from many states, jewelry retailers and members of the Atlanta Art Assn.

Roger Hallowell, president of Reed and Barton, and Joseph H. Martin, vice president, were in Atlanta for the showing.

The table setting on display was designed in New York. It was fashioned as much as possible after the way Scarlett O'Hara would have set the table at Tara for a formal dinner. The centerpiece featured a silver candelabrum centered in a tray and entwined with ivy.

UNDATED

Tara is considered a romantic pattern that is undated. It meets with the specifications of the Southern women interviewed that their silver must fit into traditional or modern settings.

The center surface is plain except for the subtle curves that reflect light and colors in just the right way.

The richly heavy looking handles are delicately outlined with carved leaf-scrolls and tiny blossoms.

An educational display on the stages of manufacture of a piece of silver and the steps in developing a new pattern of silver were also shown in the French Room of the Art Galleries.

A design begins on scratch paper as a "do-dad" or sketch by an artist. It develops into several actual experimental designs and finally into sculptured three-dimensional models to be followed in the manufacturing of a complete service of silver.

STAGES OF MANUFACTURE

The stages of manufacture showed the 57 different hand operations that go into the making of one silver teaspoon.

"There's no schizophrenia in modern design," according to W. T. Hurley Jr., merchandising manager of Reed and Barton. A pattern of silver may be functional and lovely. Nothing must be ugly to be practical.

The main deviation from tradition in modern silver is toward the practical side, according to Mr. Hurley.

Scarlett's place setting of silver included a separate spoon for soup, one for cereal and another slightly different one for dessert.

In the new pattern these three are one and the same. The butter spreaders have serrated edges in order to double as fruit knives or cheese spreaders. The knives and forks are designed to be used for any course to eliminate any duplication in buying.

The Tara pattern and the educational exhibit will be on display in the Atlanta Art Galleries through Oct. 9.

Popularity Vanishes; Check Self

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

I am 14 years old and have what I call a serious problem. Up until about three months ago I was quite popular with the crowd of kids I go around with, and I was one of the happiest kids you can imagine.

But all of a sudden it seemed like everybody stopped liking me except two girls who have always been my best friends. To make things worse, I haven't gone out on a date for two months.

I feel pretty bad and I don't think I can sleep until I understand what this is all about. Please help me, Mrs. Ricker, as I will appreciate it immensely. UNHAPPY.

I am sure you realize that it would be impossible for me to do more than guess what has caused your loss of popularity. Perhaps you have unconsciously picked up some habits which are annoying to your friends.

You may have developed an attitude which they resent; or, it even could be caused by some untrue gossip which someone has spread about you and it has hurt your reputation. Some youngsters, as you know, are quick to criticize and can be quite cruel to others.

My advice is for you to honestly check yourself to see if you can discover anything you may be doing or saying which is annoying to others.

Then, too, you can talk your problem over with the two girls who are still your friends. Ask them to tell you frankly what they think is the cause of your difficulties.

Perhaps they know but have not wanted to tell you for fear of breaking up your friendship or hurting your feelings.

Don't feel resentful or become angry if they tell you some things which you don't like. Just try to correct whatever it is as soon as possible.

This column is conducted for teen-agers and their parents. Letters can be answered through the column only—as soon as time and space permit. Write your problems to Dorothy Ricker in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Queen Seeking Muscadines, Fish

DAHLONEGA—They had trouble telling 81-year-old Mrs. Julia Dale she had been elected queen of Gold Rush Day coming up on Oct. 8, because she was out hunting muscadines.

Then they went to take a picture of her and they still couldn't find her.

She was out fishing!

But she had a feeling something was in the air, Miss Julia did. It hit her on the creek bank and she told a neighbor who was with her about it.

"I got to go to the house," Miss Julia said. "Something's happened."

The feeling was so strong and urgent within her a kind of tension communicated itself to her fishing companion who let the biggest, prettiest trout you ever saw get away!

Such is life among queens and other ladies who count on gold for a living. Miss Julia, born Julia Summerour, has lived "prett' near on top of the Auraria mines" since 1887. She was married to the late Goldie Dale, one of Lumpkin County's premier gold miners, and her brother, Dave Summerour, who is to be crowned king of the Gold Rush Day festivities, is ranking authority on prospecting and panning.

"It's kind of an uncertain way to live, isn't it?" I asked Miss Julia while the platters of chicken and ham and vegetables and hot rolls circulated up and down the table at Smith House.

Miss Julia's bright blue eyes were filled with surprise.

"Why no more than any other," she said. "When you have a need—a real pressing need—don't you find a way?"

Nowadays in north Georgia's gold country the whole ancient business of searching for gold is treated lightly as something to interest tourists. W. B. Fry has a museum where they've collected some of the old mining equipment and where visitors can play at gold panning and leave with maybe a dusting of shiny powder folded tenderly in a piece of paper in their wallets. The travel editors who were entertained here on the first lap of their Georgia journey had a chance at that and loved it.

But many a Lumpkin County woman, particularly those who live in the near-ghost town of Auraria, regards gold panning the way preachers' wives regard marriage ceremonies and farm women butter and eggs. A creek near the house is nearly as good a source of extra money.

"My husband took heart trouble," Mrs. Bill Trammell told me. "I didn't know what we would have done without the gold. We own about 40 acres near the mines and many a time we've panned out enough money to get the children's school shoes just in time.

"Once," she recalled, "my son was getting ready to graduate from high school and you know how they all need money for extras. I said to myself I'd pan some every day if it was only an hour. Looked like my housework took up a lot of time that week but still I'd get to the creek every minute I could. By the end of the week I had $18 in dust."

It's not get-rich-quick gold, as it was in the old days when they mined out more than $30 million. But it's there and in a pinch practically any Lumpkin County citizen knows where to get coffee and bread money.

And the fact that work and patience are required to get at that gold makes them generous with sharing it. The Trammells have been letting visitors gold pan on their property at $1 each for grownups (children free) for a couple of years now. Now and then somebody lucks into a sizeable chunk which they can always sell, if they want cash, to Mr. Fry or R. D. Hogue, who are accumulating it for a museum display.

After all, as Mr. Hogue told the travel editors, "Everybody ought to have a bushel of gold."

MANY CHILDREN ARE BORED THESE DAYS

Too Much "Enriched Background" To Blame?

Marcia Winn

Are Children Losing Their Gay Childhood?

There are bored children these days. Or haven't you noticed? They are young, not yet 10, but they are blase, sophisticated. An older generation might have termed them rude.

Offer one of these small prunes an ice cream cone, say, the traditional delight of childhood, and instead of a gasp of pleasure and "Oh, yes, thank you" he is quite likely to emit a bored "O.K."

With ice cream, as with all the seemingly good things of childhood, he is surfeited. Either that or he comes from a household shockingly deficient in manners. I think it is surfeit.

Ellen Key, the Swedish sociologist, has called this the century of the child, and I think many a child has caught on.

The only difference is that the child confuses the issue. So much has been done for him in this century that he thinks the century revolves around his whims rather than his welfare.

BEYOND THEIR NEED

Can it be that parents, trying to keep up in the great parental competition of nothing but the best for the kiddies, are providing too much "enriched background?

That we are doing too much for our children and leaving too little for them to do for themselves?

Must the 6-year-old be trotted around to every museum within reach long before he can understand its significance?

Must the 8-year-old go to a movie every week?

Must the 10-year-old have his private television set in his bedroom so he can be glued to it day and night?

SOMETHING LOST

This competition, for that is what it is, has every element of a rat race, and every one engaged in it, parent and child alike, is doomed to defeat, for somewhere something is being lost.

The innocence of childhood was not merely a lovely phrase the poets wrote of. It was genuinely beautiful.

It still is, when it is permitted and encouraged to flower. The developing mind, allowed to proceed at its own pace, is enchanting and infinitely rewarding.

A thoughtful little boy of nine summed it up the other day when he escaped from a children's party to share a back stoop with an Irish setter.

"I'm so tired of doing things," he lamented quietly as he placed a loving arm around the dog's neck.

For the next half hour he sat there with the dog, paradise regained.

Parties Are Set for Dentists' Wives

By ANNIE LOU HARDY

An elaborate social program has been planned in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Georgia Dental Assn. and its Women's Auxiliary to be held here in a four-day session beginning Sunday.

Initiating the series of events is the president's reception to be held on Sunday from 5 to 7 o'clock in the Mirador Room of the Capital City Club.

On Monday, members of the Atlanta Auxiliary will turn mannikin to model the latest in fall and winter fashions for the feminine visitors at a tea to be held at Franklin Simon's. A sight-seeing tour has been planned for the morning hours, beginning at 10 a.m.

On Tuesday a luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m. at the Standard Town and Country Club, with a program of entertainment and prizes planned. Bridge and canasta will follow luncheon. That evening the auxiliary members will join the association for a banquet to be held at 7 p.m. in the ballroom of the Biltmore Hotel.

Prominent feminine visitors will include Mrs. Albert Tuck of Thomasville, wife of the association president; Mrs. William Weichelbaum Jr. of Savannah, wife of the president-elect; Mrs. Sam Miller of New York City, Mrs. Philip S. Vierheller of St. Louis, Mrs. Charles Hall of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Miles Markley of Denver, Colo., all of whom are wives of visiting clinicians.

Mrs. Clyde Harling is chairman in charge of the meeting, with Mrs. W. A. Garrett as her co-chairman. Mrs. Willard Hunnicutt is in charge of tickets, with Mrs. Pierce McDonald handling registration, and Mrs. Thad Morrison Jr., publicity.

Mrs. E. L. Banks is in charge of transportation, Mrs. Nathan Teague is hospitality chairman, and Mrs. W. L. Callahan Jr., telephone chairman.

Other committee chairmen are Mrs. Marvin Sugarmen, luncheon; Mrs. James Sherard Jr., decorations; Mrs. Thomas Sharp, tea and fashion show; Mrs. John H. Mitchell, donations; Mrs. James Harpole, business manager; Mrs. W. L. Funkhouser Jr., entertainment, and Mrs. Edgar Coleman, liaison between men's and women's committees.

Candle Light Club To Meet Thursday

The Candle Light Garden Club meets Thursday with Mrs. Sam N. Rosenthal at 3270 Midway Rd. in Decatur. The cohostess will be Mrs. Arnold G. Smith.

Douglas Craig of the U. S. Forest Service will discuss "Care of Shade Trees." Flower arrangements will be done by Mrs. A. R. Chandler and Mrs. Ray B. Bishop.

Druid Hills Class To Hold Luncheon

The TEL Class of Druid Hills Baptist Church will have its annual luncheon on Friday at 12:30 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the church.

Mrs. Dorsey Smith, president, will preside. Speaker for the luncheon will be the Rev. Glendon McCullough, assistant pastor of the church.

New officers will be installed by Charles Shaw, superintendent of the Sunday School. Mrs. W. J. Mitchell and Mrs. Sam Turner are in charge of the luncheon.

You don't have to wait for your Stomach Valve to Open when you use Straight Aspirin!

MEDICAL EVIDENCE SHOWS BAYER ASPIRIN STARTS TO ACT THROUGH STOMACH WALL

...goes Right to the Root of Your Pain!

When you take a pain reliever which must pass through the valve in your stomach before it can do any good, relief is delayed until this valve opens. Medical authorities have found that the addition of certain antacids to aspirin can actually slow down absorption through the stomach wall.

When you take Bayer Aspirin, there is no unnecessary delay—no waiting for it to go through the valve in your stomach to start working. Medical evidence shows that from the instant a Bayer Aspirin tablet starts disintegrating in your stomach, it is being absorbed through your stomach wall—right to your pain. Therefore, it gives amazingly fast relief.

HERE'S PROOF THAT BAYER ASPIRIN STARTS DISINTEGRATING Instantly

Medical university tests have proved it—and you can prove it, too! All you do is drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a glass of water and watch what happens. You'll see that it starts to disintegrate the instant it touches the water. It does the same in your stomach. So to feel better fast, whenever you're suffering from the pains of headaches, colds, neuritis or neuralgia, do as millions do—use Bayer Aspirin.

Golds Coming Here For Delayed Visit

Those former Atlantans, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gold III of Washington, D. C., were scheduled to arrive in Atlanta early this week, but complications arose to delay their visit.

The pair now plans to leave the national capital on Friday with their young sons, Andy and Skippy, going first to Augusta for a visit with Mrs. Gold's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Sheridan.

Later they will visit Mrs. Gold's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Sheridan of Ponte Vedra, Fla., and spend a few days at the winter home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Beauchamp Coppedge, in Winter Park, where they lived before going to Washington.

They are due in Atlanta on Tuesday to spend the rest of the week with Mr. Gold's grandmother, Mrs. E. B. Brady, and his aunt, Mrs. Lindsey Hopkins, on W. Paces Ferry.

Mrs. Gold is the former May Sheridan. She and Mr. Gold are building a new home in Chevy Chase, Md., which they hope to occupy in the early spring.

WILLIAM S. GINN will return today to his home in Pittsfield, Mass., after a visit to his sister, Mrs. Joseph B. Brennan, and Mr. Brennan on Dellwood drive.

MRS. HARRY CALLAWAY returned yesterday to LaGrange after spending the weekend with her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Dorsey on Ivy Road.

AFTER A THREE-MONTH TOUR of the European continent, Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Pretz returned Saturday to their home on Woodhaven road. Miss Lavinia Pretz, who accompanied her parents, resumed her studies at William and Mary immediately upon her return to the States.

GREETING ATLANTA FRIENDS this week is Mrs. Agnes Wefing of Daytona Beach, who is a guest at the Atlanta Biltmore. She is here for a visit with her granddaughter, Miss Sandra Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Biemann Alexander of Daytona Beach, who is attending Marsh Business College.

MR. AND MRS. DUDLEY FORT have issued invitations to a buffet luncheon on Thursday immediately following the Governor Towns ceremonies by the Atlanta chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution at the State Capitol. Mr. Fort is president of the chapter.

The luncheon, which will be held at the Fort home at 1729 North Decatur Rd., will honor participants in the program, the officers of the Georgia Society and the Atlanta chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution.

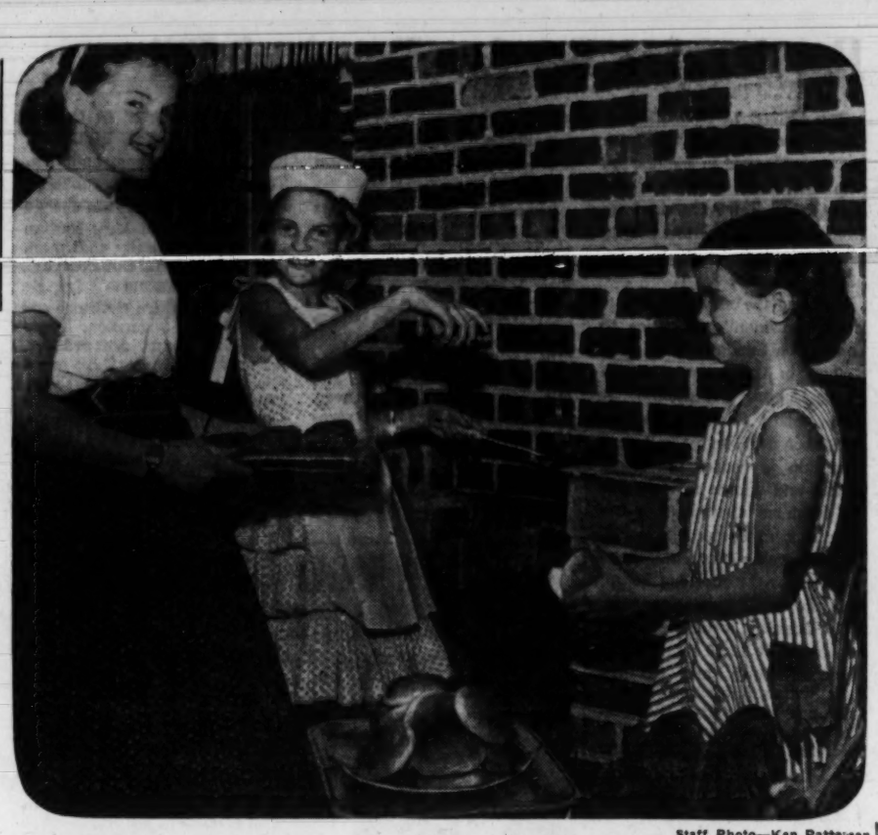

MISS JANICE GARRARD, youngest of the Walter Garrard daughters, has resumed her studies as a sophomore at Duke where she is majoring in psychology, after a most interesting summer.

Matriculating for two six-week courses in psychology and sociology at the University of California, Miss Garrard flew to Berkeley, prepared to bone up for her anticipated career as a social worker. However, it was not all work for the 17-year-old, for she made friends with whom she spent delightful weekends at Lake Tahoe, Yosemite and Carmel. She also made a horseback trip through the redwood forests.

The highlight of her summer was a visit to the U.N. Assembly in San Francisco which commemorated the 10th anniversary of the signing of the original U.N. Charter, her presence having been arranged by her cousin, Wren Middlebrook, comptroller of San Francisco. She also toured San Quentin prison, a trip she especially wanted since her major subject includes a course in criminology.

AFTER A BRIEF VACATION in the Smoky Mountains, Mrs. Hazel K. Lambright and Miss Frances L. Hill have returned to the Atlanta Terrace Motel. En route home they stopped at Cartersville for the celebration of the 82nd birthday of Miss Hills father, J. Jack Hill Sr.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE A. SMITH and their daughters, Sibley and Tyndall, are now settled in their new home at 4815 Alhambra Circle, Coral Gables, Fla. The family moved there recently from Atlanta.

Miss Cheves Is Bride of Mr. Slaten

Mrs. Shelton Sanford Cheves of Montezuma announces the marriage of her granddaughter, Miss Sarah Ann Cheves of Atlanta, to Clyde Eugene Slaten of College Park.

The ceremony was quietly solemnized yesterday at the Church of Our Saviour, with Father Roy Pettway officiating in the presence of members of the immediate family.

After a brief trip to the Smoky Mountains, the couple will reside at the Howell House, 710 Peachtree St.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Shelton S. Cheves Jr. of Montezuma and Colorado Springs, Colo. She attended the University of Colorado and since that time has resided in Atlanta.

Mr. Slaten is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Slaten Sr., residents of College Park for many years. He attended the University of Georgia, and is now affiliated with Rich's in Atlanta.

Girl Scout Leaders Set 3-Day Meet

Volunteers in girl scouting from North Carolina and South Carolina, Florida and Georgia will meet in Atlanta Wednesday afternoon for the opening session of the three-day meet of the Juliette Low Regional Committee at the Red Cross Building Auditorium.

Ranking delegate will be Mrs. Stanley Milledge of Miami, Fla., who will preside at the sessions and hear reports on the expansion program of scouting in the four-state region.

Mrs. John Russell of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., will report on international opportunities for girl scouting, while the progress of recruitment of professional workers will be outlined by Mrs. Paul J. Coughlin of Tallahassee, Fla.

Restoration of the home of Juliette Low, founder of girl scouting, in Savannah, will be given by Mrs. Charles V. Minor.

A social feature of the opening day's program will be the open house and coffee to be held at the new Girl Scout national branch office at 680 West Peachtree St., NW, at 5 p.m.

Honor guests will be the new regional committee members, Girl Scout national committee members, and delegates to the conference of the American Association of Public Welfare now meeting in Atlanta.

YOUR STARS TODAY

DAILY GUIDE—This is another day when the word of praise can smooth your way. It could open up the way to many fruitful opportunities.

In the evening the moon goes into Pisces so the influence tends to be more moody and sets the mood for tomorrow which can be an emotional day.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, LIBRA! Although some of the upsetting changes in career or business may be behind you, you may not yet have made definite plans and set new goals. If not, do so soon.

You might have to go back over details next month, but should be ready to get right into action in November. In January you might run into difficulties regarding near kin or neighbors.

Friends will help you so ask favors if you need them. Later you ought to put things into preparation for a big year of expansion and personal popularity which is due in '57.

Tea To Fete Panhellenic Membership

The Atlanta Women's Panhellenic Assn. will entertain at a membership tea on Saturday from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Price Gilbert Library at Georgia Tech.

All members of the 21 national sororities represented in the association are invited. Mrs. A. Van Hill is program chairman.

Dried arrangements and the containers in which they are arranged will be made by members of the Peachtree Heights Garden Club for display at the tea.

Proceeds from the sale of these arrangements will be used to further the association scholarship program.

The Panhellenic Assn. gives a scholarship every year to a senior girl at the University of Georgia.

This tea will be the first in a series of activities for the year. Other social events have been planned to foster intersorority fellowship.

Officers of the association, Panhellenic representatives and presidents of sorority alumnae groups will be hostesses.

Officers who will greet the guests are Mrs. Thorne Winter, Mrs. Del R. Paige, Mrs. Harry Backer, Mrs. Kells Boland and Mrs. Frank Griggs.

Women of the Moose

The Women of the Moose will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Moose Home, 781 W. Peachtree St., NE. Mrs. E. A. Gresham will preside.

At 16, Joan Vohs was the youngest dancer ever to perform for the world-famous Rockettes.

JACK GOULD

Berle Takes It Easy ---That Seems Okay

The New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—Milton Berle is taking things more easily this season, appearing only once every three weeks. After tonight's performance it would not seem likely that he will be burdened immediately with requests to step up his rate of production.

This season the comedian is making his headquarters in Hollywood and proposes to dabble alternately in revue, drama and comedy. Tonight even the revue format was a noticeable strain on his versatility. Berle did battle with some routine monologues and contributed his own leadened subtlety to a sketch or two.

If it was anybody's hour, it was that of Esther Williams. In a tank built on stage she was seen swimming under water. On color receivers her red sequin bathing suit, most delightfully filled, made an eye-catching scene in the blue water. If anything will sell color sets, this should do it.

Miss Williams also was divertingly amusing in a sketch laid in Venice. She knew how to throw her lines away whereas Berle pointed out where his had landed.

John Wayne made one of those guest appearances where he advertised his forthcoming picture. The sequence was supposed to be uproarious but even Wayne looked as if he wished there were some other way to sell a picture. His full dress seemed to look as if it had been rented for the evening.

There Goes Skelton

For a matter of a few seconds this corner caught the end of Red Skelton's show, which was presented opposite the Armstrong Circle Theater. All this department saw was Skelton being dropped into a sewer and then coming up spouting water. Skelton can quietly go get lost.

3 American Indians To Star In Brave Eagle TV Series

Special to The Constitution

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—Brave Eagle will make its debut on the CBS television network Wednesday with three American Indians playing the starring roles (Channel 5 at 6:30 p.m. in Atlanta).

It is believed to be the first television series based on the role of the American Indian in the early history of the United States.

Keith Larsen of Cheyene descent, will star as Brave Eagle, young chief of the Cheyene Indians in the days when white men began pushing their way westward into the Indian territories.

Keena Nomkeena, a full-blooded Indian lad of Hopi and Klamath descent, will have the role of Keena, Brave Eagle's foster son, and Kim Winona, a Sioux, will play Morning Star, a maiden of Brave Eagle's tribe.

Bert Wheeler, veteran of vaudeville, stage and motion pictures, will portray Smokey Joe, half-breed sage of the tribe.

The series will be produced by Roy Rogers Frontier Productions, with W. Arthur Rush and Mike North as executive producers, and Jack Lacy as producer. Paul Landres will direct the first four episodes in the series.

The productions will utilize the natural scenery of Roy Rogers' spacious 130-acre ranch in Chatsworth, 20 miles from Hollywood in San Fernando Valley, where an artificial lake has been placed and a frontier fort constructed.

Stocks Rebound With Triple Rally

25 Pct. of Severe Losses Erased in Busy Session

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—The stock market made a strong recovery today with a triple rally that erased around 25 per cent of yesterday's severe loss.

The market opened fast and higher and continued its drive ahead to the closing bell. There were three distinct rallies with the first proving to be one of the most sustained the market has seen.

Gains ran from 1 to 5 points at the outside in key areas of the list. That contrasts with losses that went to 15 points yesterday.

It was estimated that the decline in the quoted value of securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday came to around 13 billion dollars. Today the advance carried the total quoted value up an estimated $3,200,000,000, a 25 per cent recovery.

Dow-Jones industrials, down more than 40 points at one juncture Monday, regained 10.37 points today, and closed only 1.49 under their high for the day.

Yesterday's fall was set off by news of President Eisenhower's heart attack and was exceeded only by the drop of Oct. 28, 1929.

The industrial component of the average today advanced $5.60, the rails were up $1.10, and utilities gained 60 cents.

The ticker fell behind right after the opening in reporting the course of business on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange. At the worst, there was a lag of 19 minutes between the time a trade was completed and the time it was reported on the ticker tape. That has been exceeded few times since the installation of the high-speed tickers in 1930. There were frequent and extensive lags before that with the old low-speed tickers.

There was a lag of 27 minutes in June 1950 when the Korean war broke out. The greatest delay was 34 minutes during a turbulent Saturday session in May of 1933.

The 19-minute delay today lasted three hours and 16 minutes. All that time stocks held to their gains. The tape cleared, and then the second rally got under way with the tape late a second time. That rush was brief. The third and final rally came in the last 30 minutes of trading when the tape twice lagged.

All sections of the list advanced. The biggest gainer was U.S. Gypsum up 22½ at 305, and the biggest loser was Superior Oil of California off 25¼ at 875.

Among other gainers were Southern Pacific up 2, Standard Oil 3⅜, Texas Co. 3½, Distillers Corp. 1, American Telephone ⅝, Anaconda Co. 4, Phelps Dodge 4¾, DuPont 4⅝, General Electric 2, American Can 2⅞, U. S. Steel 1⅜, Bethlehem Steel 2⅜, General Motors 4⅝, Chrysler 2⅜, Goodyear 2¾, Montgomery Ward 3, North American Aviation 3⅝, RCA 1⅝, Dana Corp. 4¾, Evans Products 5, General Foods 3¾, Hercules Powder 8½, Lehigh Portland Cement 4, Lockheed 3 and National Lead 6½.

Money Curbs' Aim To Keep Boom Safe

U.S. Heartened in Guarding Against Runaway Economy

By EDWIN DALE JR.
The New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27—Despite this year's soaring consumer, business and mortgage credit, the nation's total supply of money has so far been held under control.

The figures on money are being watched closely. If the growth in the money supply can be held to the amounts needed to support a normally prosperous and growing economy, then the boom can be expected to level out without inflation and a subsequent bust.

Restraints imposed by the Federal Reserve are generally credited with keeping the money supply within bounds. The results to date have encouraged administration officials in their hope that the boom can be prevented from "running away."

HOPE OF GOP

The political implications are obvious: If the administration, working with the Federal Reserve, can swing the current prosperity for at least another year, without a big rise in prices, Republican election prospects take on an extra glow.

Evidence is strong that what money there is has been turning over faster—that each dollar is doing more work. This situation, by adding to total spending, can produce inflation just as well as an additional supply of dollars.

But the increase in turnover is, in part, an inevitable result of the working of Federal Reserve restraint. It was expected. And—again because of the way the system works—there is a limit to it, which may be approaching now, according to officials in the monetary field.

SO MONEY GROWS

It is through the process of lending by the banking system that the money supply grows. The procedure is a bit complicated. It begins with the Federal Reserve, which has the power to create—virtually out of thin air—"reserves" for the banking system. It does this in three different ways, each under different circumstances.

For each dollar of new reserves created, the banks as a group can add a dollar of new cash money or six dollars of new deposits to the money supply. This creation occurs through the banks' loans and investments—and if the demand for credit is there, the additional money creation will always come about.

The Federal Reserve, ever since spring, has been applying the screws with increasing tightness by refusing to supply all the new reserves the thirsty banking system—and the economy—wanted. But the initial effect has not been to curb loans to businesses and people; it has been to force the banks to sell off some of their "gilt-edged" investments, chiefly U.S. Government securities, to get the money to keep up the more profitable lending end of their business.

DOWN AND UP

When a bank sells a treasury bill or note to, say, a corporation, that corporation's deposits go down, and so does the total money supply. When a new loan is made, deposits and the money supply go up. Thus the story of this year has been a roughly stable money supply despite a rapid growth in loans by the banks.

For a while, this process tends to step up the turnover of money. In effect, corporation deposits which were relatively "idle" are extinguished and money is loaned to another corporation or individual who uses it. Hence the evidence that each dollar is now doing more work.

This is a key reason, officials say, why there have been some inflationary signs this year despite a stable money supply. Some prices have already risen, and demand in almost all sectors of the economy has been exceptionally strong.

However, there eventually comes an end to the time when banks can sell off their government securities to make more loans. Prudence requires them to keep a cushion of extra-safe government securities always on hand. Besides, as the banks sell, prices go down, and more and more of these investments are sold at a loss.

PINCH TO WIDEN

Thus the time is arriving when the pinch, assuming it is maintained, will affect loans, according to Federal Reserve officials. Already banks are reporting turning away potential borrowers whom they could have accommodated six months ago.

The Federal Reserve has every intention of supplying enough reserves to keep the economy moving upward — gently. This will mean a considerable increase during the coming three months, when there is a strong seasonal demand for credit and the treasury also has to make seasonal borrowings. But the reserve's current policy is to continue to supply less new money than the boom would like.

TOO MUCH PINCH?

The key question confronting the authorities is not so much whether the money supply can be kept in hand, but whether this can be done without creating too severe a pinch and perhaps setting off a dip in the economy. The Democrats charged that precisely this happened in the spring of 1953 before the mild slump of 1953-54, though the treasury and Federal Reserve reject the charge.

Up to now officials are confident the restraint has been about right—not too severe but severe enough. The coming months will tell whether this situation can be maintained.

One high officials of the treasury put it this way last week, "My fingers are crossed. You can always make a mistake, and there are some psychological factors in a boom that our type of restraint may not be able to meet. But just the same I have a hunch it will work and we'll be able to keep this boom from running away with us."

Dry Goods

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—The cotton textile market was steady Tuesday with prices higher. Mills thought converters would be active in the latter part of the week to cover requirements for the fourth quarter this year and first quarter of 1956.

In wool goods, further spring and summer lines were announced formally by clothing manufacturers with prices about unchanged. The Australian wool market was firm. The British commonwealth economic committee was reported to have made a preliminary estimate of the world wool clip for 1955-56, placing it at a record 4,550,000,000 pounds greasy basis. This would be 68,000,000 pounds above the clip of the previous season.

In rayon goods small resale transactions were noted in spun and filament fabrics.

Sugar Futures

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—World sugar futures were lower today. World raws were quoted at 3.28 cents a pound f.o.b. Cuba. Domestic sugar futures were dull. Demand for refined was good.

Domestic sugar futures No. 6 closed quiet. No sales.

Atlanta Produce

Moderate supplies of most fresh fruits and vegetables met with a slow demand and trading was dull on the Atlanta wholesale produce market early Tuesday, according to the office of the AMS.

Supplies of lima and pole beans were light while turnip salad, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes and apples were liberal to heavy.

Good quality snap beans jobbed at 3.25-3.75, and poorer quality ranged 2.25-3.00. Good quality pole beans were mostly 5.50-6.00, a few brought 6.50, and poorer quality ranged 3.00-5.00. Lima beans brought 4.50-5.00 for the best quality, 4.00-4.25 for fairly good quality. 50-lb. sacks of cabbage jobbed at 1.75-2.00. Dozen bunches of collards moved at 1.50-2.00, mostly 1.50, and bushels loose were 1.00-1.25. Very light supplies of corn brought 50c per dozen ears bulk and 2.25-2.50 for 5 dozens in sacks. Cucumbers jobbed at 4.00-4.50 for good quality, a few best sold as high as 5.00, and poorer quality was 2.00-3.50. Bushels of eggplant sold for 1.50-2.00. Mustard greens brought 1.50-2.00 per bushel. ARTIST'S CONCEPTION OF LOCKHEED ELECTRA TURBO-JETLINER
Delivery of New Airliner to Eastern Air Lines Is Scheduled to Begin in August, 1958

EAL Buying 100 Ships, Including Jets, by 1960

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Eastern Air Lines announced today a five-year plan to buy more than 100 jet, turboprop and piston engine airliners for more than 350 million dollars.

It is the largest expansion program ever undertaken by any airline, and the first with a definite schedule for progress into jet speeds. It will require a new form of long-term financing.

E. V. Rickenbacker, chairman of Eastern's board, said in a prepared announcement that the airline has:

1. Ordered 40 Lockheed Electra turboprop airliners for 100 million dollars, with an option for 30 more.

2. Placed "formal orders" totaling 125 million dollars for 40 new Douglas DC7B Golden Falcons, "the fastest and most luxurious airliners in service today," and 10 new Lockheed Super-G Constellations.

3. Plans to buy 20 U.S.-built jet transports as soon as they become available, for 125 million dollars.

Rickenbacker said the airline's engineers have not yet completed their evaluation of the two American jet types likely to become available—the Boeing 707, now flying, and the Douglas DC8, still in the design stage.

Rickenbacker said the pure jet transports, as differentiated from turboprop craft such as the Electra which will have jet engines driving propellers, should increase commercial air travel to 550 or 600 miles an hour "possibly as early as the winter of 1959-1960.

American Airlines announced last June that it had ordered 35 of the four-engine Electras for 65 million dollars, with deliveries starting in 1958 and ending by mid-1959.

WILL SLASH TIME

"These great airliners, the first turbine-powered commercial aircraft to be produced in the United States, will cut travel time between New York and Miami to less than three hours, and will advance into well over the 400 miles an hour speed range all trunk-line express schedules across the eastern half of the United States," Rickenbacker said.

Rickenbacker said initial performance estimates were based on the use of 3,750-horsepower engines, but he added that he is confident engines of greater horsepower will be available for commercial use by the time the aircraft is ready. He predicted speed and range should be substantially increased.

DUE IN 1958

The first of the 66-passenger, 2,000-mile-range Electras is to be delivered in August 1958 with the first 40 to be delivered by July 1959.

All 50 of the DC7Bs and Super-C Constellations are to be delivered — and paid for—by mid-1958, Rickenbacker said.

Rickenbacker said Eastern's jet transports will carry from 80 to 100 passengers first class, or 120 to 130 in air coach designs.

Going into service in 1960, they will cut travel time from New York, Cleveland, Detroit or Chicago to Miami to two hours; from New York to New Orleans to 2½ hours, and from New York to Houston or Puerto Rico to three hours. The New York-Mexico City flight would be reduced to four hours.

Final details of the financing plan will be completed in November, Rickenbacker said.

Rye Higher; Rest Lower

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—All grains except rye closed lower in another session of quite active dealings on the Board of Trade today. But the market was much more subdued than yesterday.

Most of the reasons behind the market's action were directly related to grains. The market appeared to overlook, at least for a day, the political implications involved in President Eisenhower's illness.

Wheat closed ¼ to 2 cents lower, corn unchanged to ⅝ lower, oats ⅝ to 1 cent lower, rye ¾-1¼ higher, soybeans 2¼-5¾ lower and lard 5 to 20 cents a hundred points lower.

Bids will be opened publicly and read publicly at a joint meeting of the Purchasing Committee and Water Committee of the City of Atlanta, and must be deposited with the undersigned prior to the beginning of said joint meeting at 2 p.m. Monday, Oct. 10, 1955. No bid may be withdrawn after the scheduled closing time for receipt of bids for at least 30 days.

The work consists of furnishing and installing a turbine driven forced draft fan, a continuous blowdown system, dampers and air ducts, combustion control equipment, operating platforms and other miscellaneous items in the boiler room at the Hemphill Pumping Station, and a pressure water pump in the upper pump room of the Hemphill Pumping Station.

All proposals must be accompanied by a certified check drawn in favor of the City of Atlanta, Georgia, in amount of 5% of the bid; such check representing a guarantee that the successful bidder, if awarded the contract, will enter into a contract with the City and furnish performance bond. This check shall be forfeited to the City as liquidated damages if bidder fails to enter into a contract and furnish satisfactory performance bond within 10 days after notice that he has been awarded same. Each check submitted shall be accompanied by a written financial statement from a bank or other financial corporation as to bidder's ability to carry on the work if awarded the contract. Each bid also shall be accompanied by a list of at least five similar projects completed by the bidder as references as to his ability to do the work.

Plans, specifications and contract documents are on file at the office of the Purchasing Agent, Atlanta, Georgia, and at the office of the General Manager, Water Works Department, City Hall, Atlanta, Georgia. Plans and specifications may be obtained from the Purchasing Agent upon deposit of $25, which will be refunded to each party submitting a bid. The right is reserved to accept or reject any and all bids, and to waive informalities.

CITY OF ATLANTA, GA.
ERNEST J. BREWER, Purchasing Agent.

INVITATION TO BID

Sealed proposals from general contractors will be received by the State School Building Authority, Owner, at 4th Floor, Kemper Building, 41 Exchange Place, S.E., Atlanta, Georgia, until 3:00 P.M., Eastern Standard Time on October 27th, 1955, for the construction of buildings as follows: MINTON ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, SYLVESTER ELEMENTARY AND HIGH SCHOOL (COLORED), SYLVESTER ELEMENTARY SCHOOL (WHITE), NEW HOPE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, ANDERSON CITY ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, RED ROCK ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, SUMNER ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, SYLVESTER HIGH SCHOOL, and BRIDGEBORO ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, all to be located in Worth County, Georgia. At the time and place noted above, the proposals will be publicly opened and read. A combined bid on the above projects is also permissible. No extension of the bidding period will be made.

Bidding documents may be obtained at the office of the architects, ALBANY ARCHITECTS & ENGINEERS, P. O. Box 1778, Albany, Georgia. Applications for documents together with deposit of $50.00 per set per improvement should be filed promptly with the architects. Bidding material will be forwarded, shipping charges collect, as soon as possible. The full amount of deposit for one set will be refunded to each general contractor who submits a bona fide bid upon return of such set in good condition within 30 days after date of opening of bids. All other deposits will be refunded with deductions approximating cost of reproduction of documents upon return of same in good condition within 30 days after date of opening of bids.

Contract, if awarded, will be on a lump sum basis. No bid may be withdrawn for a period of 35 days after time has been called on the date of opening. Bids must be accompanied by a bid bond in an amount not less than 5% of the base bid. Both a performance and a payment bond will be required in an amount equal to 100% of the contract price.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive technicalities and informalities.

2 Are Hurt In Fighting at Fairgrounds

Tempers ran short Tuesday night while preparations were being rushed for the opening of the Southeastern Fair at Lakewood Park.

As result of it, police said, two concession employees entered into a fight that led them first to Grady Hospital and then to jail on charges of disorderly conduct-fighting.

Ronnie Duanne Karam, 26, of Canton, Ohio, an employe of the Gooding Amusement Co., who was identified as one of the contestants, was treated for a long tear wound in the right leg.

Karam's opponent, Nelvin Smith, 30, of New Orleans, employe of the N. C. Taylor Co., was treated for a bite wound in the left side and skinned elbows.

Dets. W. S. Acree and O. W. Jordan said the argument began when Smith parked a tractor-trailer truck at the crowded fairground and Karam demanded that the truck be moved.

Both are scheduled for trial in Municipal Court at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday.

National Guard Chief Arrives for Recruiting Meet

Training for enlisted men on active duty with the National Guard is not mandatory, but on a voluntary basis, Maj. Gen. Edgar C. Erickson of Washington, chief of the National Guard Bureau, said here Tuesday night.

Gen. Erickson, accompanied by Lt. Col. James Deering, public information officer of the bureau, arrived here for a meeting at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Henry Grady Hotel of 125 National Guard representatives from states of the 3rd Army area.

He said the National Guard was interested in promoting active duty training, and the meeting would outline details of how the new reserve bill applies to the National Guard.

North Carolina will not be represented at the meeting, he added, as delegates from that state attended a similar recruiting conference in Washington Sept. 14.

Gen. Erickson was in Atlanta last February on an inspection trip of the Georgia National Guard.

A. L. Woodliff, USDA Auditor, Dies on Train

Albert L. Woodliff, 50, of Atlanta, an auditor for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, died early Tuesday morning on a train near Temple, Tex.

Mr. Woodliff, who had been employed by the regional office of the Agriculture department here for the past 25 years, had lived in Atlanta most of his life. He was born in Gadsden, Ala., coming here as a small child.

Mr. Woodliff was a member of the Druid Hills Methodist Church. He had also been active in the Masons and as a Shriner.

Funeral services will be held at 11:30 a.m. Thursday at Spring Hill. Dr. L. M. Twiggs will officiate. Burial will be in Westview Cemetery.

Survivors include his wife; mother, Mrs. J. A. Woodliff of Atlanta; two sisters, Mrs. H. J. Brown of Atlanta and Mrs. George Buckley of Dallas, Tex.

John Conness Shepherd, 76, brother of an Atlantan and son of the last governor of the District of Columbia, died Tuesday at a Harrison, Ark., hospital.

Mr. Shepherd's father, Alexander Robey Shepherd, was appointed to the governorship by President U. S. Grant. The position was abolished in 1880. Mr. Shepherd, a retired mining engineer, had lived at Harrison since 1941.

He was the brother of Mrs. P. S. Wagney of Atlanta.

Other survivors include his wife and a sister, Mrs. F. J. Marchant of Gulfport, Fla.

3 Die in Collision Of Navy Planes

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 27 (AP)—Two Navy planes collided in flight about 10 miles northeast of Jacksonville today and crashed carrying three persons to their deaths.

The Naval Air Station said the planes, a TV2 jet trainer and an AD6 Skyraider, a propeller driven attack plane, were engaged in training operations.

The jet carried two persons and the Skyraider a pilot only. Both planes burned on impact with the ground.

Catchers Tired of Leading Dog's Life

CHARLOTTE, N.C., Sept. 27 (AP). The Mecklenburg County Commissioners today approved pistols for dog catchers so they can defend themselves against dog owners who threaten them for picking up their pets.

Dr. Carl Peterson Dies of Injuries From Air Crash

Dr. Carl Peterson of Chicago, secretary to the American Medical Assn's. council of industrial health, died Tuesday at Hendersonville, N.C., of injuries suffered Monday in the plane crash near that city, the Associated Press reported.

Dr. Peterson was thrown clear of the plane, in which two others were killed. They were Edward B. R. Campbell, 38, a native of Johnson City, Tenn., and Melvin S. Gould, 42, pilot of the twin-motored plane.

Dr. Peterson boarded the plane in Atlanta and was enroute to a conference at Asheville, N.C.

Purtiest Ranch Home This Side of Texas

YES SIR, this practically new 6-rm. and den, 2-bath brick is just about the best looking property in these here parts. Located in the wide open spaces, out on Mitchell Rd., off Long Island Dr., on about 2½-acre lot (237x438), my podner counted 157 pine trees in the front yard, the back yard's purtey, too, makes a mighty safe place for little cowboys to ride. Inside is nice lookin', too, the Missus will sure like the sparklin' kitchen with its breakfast corner and family room, with big open fireplace. Plenty of closet space in the 3 good size bedrms. If you're singing the blues over one bath, look at these two. I'm ready Podner to show you. When you see it, you'll put your brand on it. Priced right at $27,500.
